POST-SCRIPTS By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

"Morning, evening, all is alike with me, I have restless thoughts."

With the national bird selling at only 60 cents a pound Congress ought to revise the tariff at once to protect the down-trodden American farmer from the competition of pauper turkeys from abroad.

The campaign fund committee appears to have got "Garner's goat of Texas."

Rings on his fingers and bells on his toes, Good will just oozes wherever he goes.

After working both sides of the street in Honduras and Salvador in one day Mr. Hoover sells Nicaragua on his line of goods in half an hour. There will be few itemized hotel bills in his expense account.

Although there will be fox-hunting every day around Charlottesville it is not believed that Mr. Coolidge will do much riding as he has decided to leave Bucahphus in the gym with the plug disconnected.

The Civil Service Commission is establishing an elaborate fingerprint system, but doesn't this give an unfair advantage to untidy applicants who show up with dirty hands?

Speaking of the good-will market in Latin America we observe from the Havana dispatches that Cuba sure is raising cane.

You've heard the story of our community chest—nothing in it! Here's a void aching to be filled.

The Boulder Dam bill is the unfinished business of the Senate but it is believed now that the finish will not be long delayed.

The Cabinet votes a half-holiday today by way of preparation for Thanksgiving, but how about another half-holiday on Friday to enable the folks to get over it?

"Hickory, dickory, dock, The mouse ran up the clock."

That's serious enough, goodness knows, but when a rat runs up a chauffeur's leg in heavy traffic what good is a stop and go signal in Burlington, Wis.?

A mere place on the District committee isn't good enough for Louis Ludlow—let's have done with half measures, and make him Chairman.

Speaking of the chairmanship of a mere committee of the House of Representatives, who does Fred Britten think he is, anyhow, Secretary Kellogg or Lloyd George? The personally-conducted good-will tour idea seems to be spreading at an alarming rate.

The New York gambler sought in the Rothstein murder, who made a rendezvous with the detective in a barber shop, probably merely wanted to put the best possible face on the matter.

Mr. S. S. Kresge takes another bride, establishing another link in the chain, so to speak.

Washington's up-and-coming business men show some of our town's old-fashioned vim and pep in organizing for an old-fashioned inaugural. All we need to worry about now is an old-fashioned blizzard.

The Prince of Wales starting from the jungles of Africa for the bedside of his father, by caravan, and swift cruiser, and special train, is a more alarming bulletin than those issued by the discreet and conservative court physicians. The next few days will disclose whether we are witnessing a temporary illness or the passing of the scepter of the world's mightiest monarchy.

Six lions held up the Prince of Wales' courtiers, but were chased off by the unicorn.

We are now enthralled in the latest picture—Father Knickerbocker's Bringing Up George McManus.

Mr. Hoover leaves 75 Marines' worth of good will in Nicaragua.

Little Gloria Caruso wins a record fortune.

Dr. Heyl, of the Bureau of Standards, puts the earth on his private scales and finds that it weighs 6 sextillion, 592 quintillion tons. Long or short?

If this inaugural controversy keeps up somebody will have to organize a good will flight from the Chamber of Commerce to the Board of Trade.

The Village Snoopers vote to stick their noses into the moving picture business.

What the down-trodden turkeys of this country can't understand is why Nebraska is the only State that seems to be trying to do something about the hatchet-killers.

BUSINESS MEN MOVE TO STAGE OLD INAUGURAL

Chamber Committee Calls Meeting to Discuss Proposals.

ADVERTISING CLUB JOINS IN ACTIVITY

Appoints Members to Push Plans; Thousands More Visitors Are Listed.

The movement for an old-fashioned inaugural celebration—a purely civic celebration to be arranged by the city itself—reached the action stage yesterday.

Taking the lead in the movement, the executive committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce came out definitely in favor of a local celebration and decided to invite representatives of the various trade and civic organizations to discuss plans for it at a luncheon in the Mayflower Hotel at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon.

While the executive committee was in session the wires brought news that 200 neighbors of Herbert Hoover in Palo Alto, Calif., were coming here for the inauguration on March 4.

At the same time the Washington Advertising Club met at the National Press Club and unanimously adopted a resolution favoring a civic celebration in connection with the inauguration. President Ernest Johnston was authorized to appoint a committee to help bring the celebration about.

Other Meetings in Sight. Following the meeting of the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce, it was announced that representatives of the Board of Trade, the Merchants & Manufacturers Association, the City Club, the Federation of Citizens Associations, and the Women's City Club would be invited to the luncheon at the Mayflower next Monday.

The aim of the chamber, it was said, is to work out plans for a civilian celebration that will not conflict with the desire of President-elect Hoover for a simple inauguration, and it was emphasized that the celebration which the chamber has in mind would be purely an unofficial one—a tribute to Mr. Hoover and a gesture of welcome to the thousands who come here to see him take the oath of office.

Members of the chamber appointed to attend the luncheon were President Ivan C. Weld, First Vice President Charles W. Darr, Past President Martin A. Leese, Past President Robert N. Harper, who was chairman of the Wilson Inaugural committee, and Secretary Dorsey W. Hyde.

Announcement of the coming of Hoover's Palo Alto neighbors was made by Frank S. Hight, managing director of the Willard Hotel, after he had received a request for 200 reservations from that town.

Mr. Hight was advised that the Palo Alto contingent would make the trip across the country in a special car, and would arrive here on Saturday, March 4, and remain for a few days after their neighbor has been installed in the White House.

Great Crowds Expected. Most of the organizations that have been invited to send representatives to the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Monday already have approved the principle of a civic celebration for March 4.

Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, said he believed that the inauguration would be a great success.

Caruso Girl Gets Fortune, But Only Wants to Skate

Gloria, 9, Unconcerned by Court's Decree Giving Her $666,666 From Father's Record Royalties, Is Interested in Her Weird Drawings, Not Money.

New York, Nov. 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Gloria Caruso, who will be 9 years old a week before Christmas, was awarded two-thirds of the royalties for the reproduction of her father's voice on Victor records by the decree of Chancellor Edwin R. Walker at Trenton, N. J., today.

This decision of the New Jersey courts will give Gloria two-thirds of $1,000,000, instead of one-half, as granted by the Italian law after Enrico Caruso's death; so a reporter asked the heiress of $666,666 just what she wanted to do with her fortune.

By one of the best authorities, Gloria's nurse, the reporter was informed that Miss Caruso already has an ample fortune—$1 a week—and was not interested in speculating on fabulous sums.

"What do you want?" Gloria was asked. She is a sturdy little girl with brown eyes and brown hair, a small feminine edition to her famous tenor father. She was in the nursery and playroom in the Stanhope Hotel, where Mrs. Caruso and her two children are living. Gloria looked around the room filled with dolls, a rocking horse, white rabbits with long ears and china doll dishes.

Wales Speeding Home To Side of Ill Father

Warship Sent to Carry Heir as King Makes Battle for Life.

London, Nov. 27 (U.P.).—The Prince of Wales completed tonight the first stage of a 5,000-mile race from the heart of an African jungle to the bedside of King George, his father, who is gravely ill here.

With every agency of land and sea which the British Empire can command placed at his disposal, the heir to the crown made his way over the faint trails of black Tanganyika to the outpost of Dodoma, some 200 miles from the coast. The regular escort which had been with the prince on his big game hunting expedition was left behind and a single friend accompanied him.

A dispatch to the Daily Mail, telling of the prince's arrival, said he had spent an anxious week-end and delayed to start at once for Dar-es-Salaam, on the East African coast, where the fastest cruiser in Britain's navy—H. M. S. Enterprise—will be waiting to take him and his brother, the Duke of Gloucester, aboard.

A special train was ready to carry the royal party to Dar-es-Salaam, the Daily Mail's correspondent said, but messages received at Dodoma were of such a nature that the prince decided to remain over night.

It was expected that the Enterprise, CONTINUED ON PAGE 3, COLUMN 4.

Six Lions Hold Up Car Taking News to Prince

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Cape Town, Nov. 27.—Many messengers carrying the latest news of King George's illness have been taken at perilous risk through the African bush to the Prince of Wales. A code message reached Dodoma for Wales at 10 o'clock this morning, and immediately was dispatched in a fast automobile.

While taking the first news of the king's illness the automobile party was held up by six lions. The beasts declined to move, despite the flashing of spotlights and frequent blowing of the horn. Rifles were carried, but it was thought better not to shoot for fear that if they wounded a lion the others might charge, preventing the party from getting through with the message.

Eventually the driver stepped on the gas and dashed through the six lions. Then the automobile climbed precipitous cliffs, with a drop of 300 feet on one side. Despite all the obstacles the message was delivered to the prince.

P.E.P.CO. TO SPEND MILLIONS ON PLANT

New Unit at Benning Will Increase Power Output to 178,000 Kilowatts.

LOWER RATE FORECAST

Rapid progress is being made in the construction program calling for a $2,815,000 addition to the Benning steam power plant of the Potomac Electric Power Co. It was revealed yesterday in the quarterly report of the North American Co., of which the local company is a subsidiary. The new unit, expected to be completed by June, will enable the local power company to increase its plant capacity of electrical power to 178,000 kilowatts. A new generator of 30,000 kilowatts capacity, together with new boilers and auxiliary equipment, will be installed. A feature of the auxiliary equipment will be a $15,000 kilowatt frequency changer.

With a plant capacity of 178,000 kilowatts, officials of the power company feel confident they will be able to care for the electric power consumption of the city until 1932. The new building will be constructed of hollow concrete blocks on steel frames. Two additional reinforced concrete smoke stacks 233 feet in height also will be constructed, making a total of nine smoke stacks at the plant.

A peak load of 110,300 kilowatts was recorded at the plant Monday, officials reported. This represented an increase load of 17,000 kilowatts on the same date last year. During the last four years a reduction of 41 per cent on the rate of electric power has been made by officials, and with the new plant in operation next year, a further reduction in power rate can be expected, they point out.

The North American Co., which, in addition to the Washington Railway & Electric Co., Potomac Electric Power Co. and Braddock Light & Power Co., of this city, controls through stock ownership four other main groups in

MOVIE CRUSADERS VOTE TO SAVE FANS

29 Delegates Agree to Seek Federal Aid to Clean Up Films.

MINORITY WALKS OUT

Crystallizing into a four-page resolution and possible aid in the crusading spirit of the true reformer, the slating national motion picture conference, presided over by Canon William Sheafe Chase, last night voted not only to save the people of the United States from the grip of the film industry but to widen its scope to include all the nations of the world, with the assistance of the Department of Commerce. At least that is what the 29 delegates who remained decided would be the wisest course. The others, a number of whom had been told they weren't wanted, anyway, "walked out" without taking the trouble to vote. The corridors of the Mayflower Hotel echoed their indignant whispering an hour later.

Delegates who decided to leave the canon's assemblage when they declared they saw themselves outnumbered included: Mrs. Charles T. Owens, of Norristown, Pa., representing the Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. Clara Keck Heffebower, of Cincinnati, Ohio, representing the American Penwomen and her four associates; the delegation of the American Federation of Industrial Women, led by Mrs. C. Fuller Winters, of this city; the International Society of Catholic Alumnae, led by Mrs. Robert E. Griebel and Mrs. Frank P. Briery, both of Brooklyn, N. Y.; the National Photoplay Industries, led by Mrs. David H. Ross, of Indianapolis, and the Cleveland Federation of Women's Clubs, headed by Mrs. E. L. Grossman.

The women all declared that the organizations represented by them are opposed to the suggestion that Federal censorship will in any way improve the type of production. A number of these delegations had made known their attitude immediately upon their arrival to attend the session which opened Monday.

Although he diplomatically sought to sidestep the issue of censorship in an address before the council yesterday afternoon, Huston Thompson, former member of the Federal Trade Commission and an ardent movie fan, supplied the idea behind the proposal of the "faithful few" that all American motion picture films be submitted to the Department of Commerce for review before being exported.

The resolutions adopted as the concluding feature of the embattled two-day convention embodied that idea, besides setting forth that because the motion picture industry has "failed to give appreciable response to the nineteen years of cooperation on the part of the public to improve the moral character of the film," the conference should go on record sponsoring Federal regulation of the industry.

It also was voted to expose the cause of legislation of that character now pending in Congress and to invite representatives of both the affiliated and unaffiliated motion picture producers to meet delegates of Federal Motion Picture Council in America, Inc., to discuss other legislative means to control the industry.

Autoist, Talking to Wife Before Home, Arrested

Camden, N. J., Nov. 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Because he violated a borough ordinance by "loitering" in his automobile more than fifteen minutes after midnight, E. G. Supplee, of Oaklyn, N. J., near here, was arrested. He pleaded he was sitting in his own car in front of his own house talking with his own wife. Police said this made no difference, but Recorder John Valley dismissed the case.

M'MANUS HELD AS MURDERER OF ROTHSTEIN

Bail Is Refused Following His Surrender in New York Barber Shop.

FACES FIRST-DEGREE CHARGE IN SLAYING

Banton Promises Immunity if Gambler, Innocent, Tells of Shooting.

New York, Nov. 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—George A. McManus rose from the barber's chair in a haze of perfume and talcum powder. "Brush, sir?" inquired the barber. He paused a moment while the barber whisked a broom over his pepper and salt suit.

"All set, John?" he asked, turning to the wooden chairs against the wall of the little shop at 245th street and Broadway.

"Sure," answered the detective. "Let's go."

The big fellow—he stands 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 200 pounds—slipped on a glove-fitting gray overcoat and brown hat, tucked Charles G. Norris' novel, "Bread," under his arm and followed the detective to the automobile.

Thus did George A. McManus, politician of sorts and a gambler, "surrender" to the police, shortly before 9 o'clock this morning and quietly end the 23-day search for him as the "key witness" in the murder of Arnold Rothstein, gambler and once his friend.

Accused of First-Degree Murder.

At 11:30 o'clock, charged with murder in the first degree, he was committed by Judge Mancuso to the Tombs. The charge was the thesis of a short affidavit sworn to by Detective Cordes and saying, in part, "John Cordes, occupation a police officer, thoroughly believes that the said George A. McManus on the 4th of November, 1928, in the County of New York, did shoot with a gun and injure one Arnold Rothstein, from the effects of which the said Arnold Rothstein died on the 6th day of November, 1928."

Held without bail, McManus was in cell No. 112, on the first tier, tonight and, according to his lawyer, James D. C. Murray, "very happy and not a bit discouraged." He is compelled to remain there until 11 o'clock Friday morning, when he will be given a hearing.

Thus far he has refused to answer questions. Characterized by District Attorney Banton as "the man who could end this mystery in three minutes," the florid-faced McManus provided the police with no more than his pedigree and the fact that he lived at No. 51 Riverside drive.

Silent as to Shooting.

But what happened in room 349 at the Park Hotel? Who held the gun that pumped a .38-caliber slug into the groin of Arnold Rothstein? Where he had been these past three weeks? All these questions he made it clear he does not propose to answer. District Attorney Banton, his confidence seemingly refreshed by the "arrest" or "surrender" of McManus, was not outwardly disturbed by the gambler's reticence.

"I would like to say," he announced, "that Mr. McManus will be granted immunity if he can prove that he did not actually fire the shot that killed Arnold Rothstein, and tells us who did."

"That goes for every one in the case. For instance, if a hired gunman did it, we shall be liberal with him if he tells us the highest up who hired him." Developments came thick and fast today after McManus' casual delivery of himself. Banton spontaneously announced that, as a result of the taking of McManus into custody, the grand jury now sitting in the case would be speeded up and indictments handed down perhaps as early as Friday.

Holds 70 Witnesses Unneeded.

"I do not now see the need of calling the 70 witnesses I originally called," he said. "Nor have I any doubt that all those involved in the case will soon be under our control and punished. With McManus now in our hands we can avoid the unessentials and get down to business."

At police headquarters, where criticisms by the press and the abortive series of ultimatums by Mayor Walker produced much uneasiness during the lean days of investigation, there was much jubilation. Police Commissioner Warren and his aids, having smarted long enough, are happy that the missing witnesses are now in Banton's hands and the responsibility henceforth is on his shoulders.

But Isaiah Leebow, counsel for three of the four gambling friends of the murdered Rothstein and McManus, who are now held in $100,000 bail each, bitterly attacked District Attorney Banton and the police for their conduct of the investigation.

The four men—"Nigger" Nate Raymond, West Coast gambler; Jimmy McManus, Sidney Stajer, friend of Rothstein and one of his heirs, and Alvin "Titanic" Thompson" Thomas, Western gambler

Britten Asks Baldwin To Aid Arms Problem

Cable by Representative Urges U. S.-English Session in Canada.

(United Press.)

Acting on his own initiative, Representative Fred A. Britten, of Illinois, chairman of the House naval affairs committee, has sent a private cablegram to Premier Baldwin of Great Britain proposing that the House naval affairs committee meet in Canada with a naval committee of the British Parliament and discuss the cruiser controversy between the United States and Great Britain.

Representative Britten said last night he had not consulted with President Coolidge or the State Department before taking this action regarding a question which has been the subject of much discussion between the two governments for more than a year. Britten prepared his cablegram to Baldwin and sent it from his office here as he would have sent any private message.

Britten said he saw nothing improper in this procedure, unusual as it is, because he acted not only as chairman of the House naval affairs committee, but also in his capacity as a vice president of the Interparliamentary Union.

Britten said he learned yesterday his cablegram had leaked out, but whether here or in London he did not know, and he published it with a statement asserting he acted entirely within his congressional authority.

"There should be no misconception of my communication nor of my purpose," he said.

State Department officials had not heard of the matter until asked about it by the United Press. They recalled

REAL ESTATE DEALER CLAIMS BANKRUPTCY

John L. Barr, of Chevy Chase, Files Petition in Court in Baltimore.

ORDER SIGNED BY JUDGE

John L. Barr, prominent local attorney and real estate operator, living at 11 Primrose street, Chevy Chase, Md., yesterday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the Federal court in Baltimore, Md. Liabilities were listed as amounting to $2,743,814 and assets amounting to $2,306,283. He is represented by Edward Stafford, son of Judge Wendell P. Stafford, of the District Supreme Court.

Mr. Barr last night declared he filed the bankruptcy petition in an effort to take care of the unprotected interests of persons having assets in his estate.

Some time ago Mr. Barr pointed out, foreclosures were made against properties in which he had assets. Later he was sued for deficiency judgments in connection with these properties, he said, causing him to file his bankruptcy petition.

Included among the liabilities listed are secured claims amounting to $2,231,300.90. His debts include claims on promissory notes and due bills to the amount of $11,840 and $2,234.37 in taxes.

Among his assets are $2,204,133 in real estate; $48,830 in promissory notes; due $100 in books, prints and pictures; $38 in carriages and other vehicles and $68 in cash.

An order of adjudication was signed by Federal Judge Soper, referring the matter to Arthur D. Willard, referee in bankruptcy at Frederick, Md., for hearing.

This was necessary because there is at the present time, a vacancy in the refereeship caring for matters arising in Montgomery County.

Wireless Phone Calls Aid to Wrecked Ship

Cape May, N. J., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—A wireless telephone was used at sea in case of distress occurring early tonight, when the CG-105 crashed into a rock pile after it had been caught in a strong current at the entrance of Delaware Bay.

The voice of Chief Boatswain's Mate William Armit, in command, was heard at the Coast Guard base here. He told the exact location of the distressed vessel, saying that although it was leaking the pumps would keep it afloat. Two patrol boats sped to the scene and towed in the crippled ship.

PHILIPPINE TYPHOON DEATH TOLL IS 200

Islands of Leyte and Samar Hardest Hit; Many Thousands Homeless.

MILLIONS LOSS REPORTED

Manila, Nov. 28 (Wednesday, A.P.). Reports brought by restored communications today indicated that 200 persons perished in the typhoon which struck the central Philippine Islands Thursday and continued until Saturday. Ten thousand are homeless on the island of Leyte alone.

Leyte and Samar Islands suffered most. While no reports have been received from the eastern sections of the archipelago, it is believed that the loss of life was large.

Crop and property damage probably will aggregate millions of dollars, although lack of communications renders it impossible to make an estimate. The sugar crop, however, is thought to have escaped serious damage.

The United States cruiser Milwaukee, with a relief party from Manila, left supplies and Red Cross helpers at Cebu and Samar Islands, and planned to go to Leyte today.

Four destroyers have been ordered to leave Manila today for the devastated regions, as a result of a conference between Gov. Henry L. Stimson and naval officers.

The typhoon was described by Gov. Gen. Stimson as comparable in force with the one which recently wrought havoc in Porto Rico. Communication was disrupted, but reports that trickled in prior to today stated that the Islands of Luzon, Samar, Romblon, Tablas, Masbate, Mindoro, Cebu and Panay had suffered severely.

The town of Legaspi, in southern Luzon, and the vicinity had 7,000 homeless, but yesterday had so far recovered as to decline the relief brought by the cruiser Milwaukee.

Three Fliers Rescued 25 Miles Off Florida

West Palm Beach, Fla., Nov. 27 (A.P.). Attaches of the Navy Radio Station at Jupiter tonight said three men who had been rescued from a disabled seaplane 25 miles off Jupiter light were brought to that point late today. They left for Stuart to obtain a boat to salvage their craft. Names of the men or identity of the plane were not learned at the Jupiter station.

Lindbergh Lands in Capital After Flight From Mexico

Colonel, Arriving Unannounced After Mystery Hop, Is Greeted Only by Field Attendants—Leaves Bolling for Secret Destination in Borrowed Automobile.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed at Bolling Field last night at 6:30, at the end of the flight from Mexico which set the heart of the world aflutter Saturday owing to rumors that the ace had crashed.

The flier landed at the field unannounced, having made the flight from Nashville, Tenn., to which city he had flown from Memphis earlier in the morning.

Col. Lindbergh was greeted at the field here by only a squad or so of men who were on duty. They put up his plane and the colonel, after chatting with them for a few minutes, left the station. He asked officers at the field to supply him with transportation, and boarding an automobile left

HOOVER HAILS END OF STRIFE IN NICARAGUA

Diaz and Moncada Pledge to U. S. Friendship of Their Nation.

LEADERS URGE WORK BE BEGUN ON CANAL

Luncheon Is Made Gala Affair; President-Elect, Pleased, Off for Costa Rica.

U. S. S. Maryland En Route to Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—As the battleship Maryland speeded from Nicaragua to Costa Rica, the fourth and last of the Central American countries which he will visit, Herbert Hoover tonight expressed gratification over the warm reception given him in Corinto by the Nicaraguan government's leading officials.

The President-elect declared that his welcome by the leaders of former contending forces in Nicaragua—President Diaz, former President Chamorro and President-elect Moncada—was a demonstration that the "difficult national crisis" into which the United States had been drawn had now reached a basis of solution meriting the deepest thankfulness of the people of both countries.

As a final tribute to Nicaragua, before the Maryland's anchor was hauled up, the battleship's band played the Nicaraguan national anthem.

The program in Costa Rica is uncertain due to the recent damage to railroads by storms which may prevent Hoover's planned journey by rail to San Jose, the country's capital.

Approves National Guard.

Mr. Hoover was much impressed by the seaport of Corinto in Nicaragua. He also liked the appearance of the Nicaraguan national guard, which has been organized by the American Marines, and now has been recruited to a strength of 1,700 men.

A detachment of 75 marines who had been stationed in Nicaragua, was taken on board the Maryland for duty during the remainder of the good-will voyage.

The luncheon meeting of Hoover and President Diaz and President-elect Moncada, of Nicaragua, was considered of historical significance both in the exchanges of views between them and in the spirit evidencing the desire of the representatives of the two nations to promote harmony and progress.

Hoover toasted Nicaragua in water. "The American people will cooperate with the Nicaraguan people for the building up of the prosperity of Nicaragua," the American President-elect declared before he drank his toast.

He then turned to Moncada and said: "I treasure this as a great day in my career as the new President-elect of the United States. I hope that Gen. Moncada will remember it as one of the great days of his career."

President Diaz Speaks.

In response to Hoover's speech of congratulation over Nicaragua's settlement of her internal difficulties, President Diaz said:

"It has been extremely satisfactory to me in the closing days of my presidency to greet the President-elect of the great American people who will direct the future destinies of the most powerful republic in the world. I salute you, Mr. Hoover, who quickly upon achieving your ex this vessel toward the happiness and prosperity of such distinguished travelers.

"I feel greatly honored," Mr. Hoover said, "that I should have on this occasion been welcomed not only by the President of Nicaragua but by the president-elect and the former president."

"Representing the political parties of Nicaragua who have been lately in conflict, this occasion becomes one of much more than ordinary interest. It represents the growing unity of the Nicaraguan people. It represents the consolidation of the forces of domestic peace. It demonstrates that the difficult national crisis into which my own country has been drawn has now reached a basis of solution which merits the deepest thankfulness of all our peoples, and for which I wish to congratulate the leaders of the Nicaraguan nation."

At the luncheon table Moncada was placed at Hoover's left with Mrs. Hoover on her husband's right. Next to her were Diaz, Chamorro and Caceres Pato, Nicaraguan minister of foreign affairs. Next to Moncada were Ambassador Fletcher, Dr. Daguerre, Nicaraguan minister of finance, and American Minister Eberhardt.

Covers were laid at the luncheon for 42 persons, including the American naval and marine officers on duty in Nicaragua. The tables were placed under an awning on the quarterdeck. The rails of the ship were festooned with signal flags, palm branches and native flowers.

Advocate Canal's Construction.

The construction of the Nicaraguan Canal, connecting the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, by the United States at the earliest possible time was advocated today by President Diaz and President-elect Moncada in a joint statement.

The two Nicaraguan officials expressed this view to newspapermen in an interview in which they declared that the visit of the American President-elect to the country was the desire of all parties in Nicaragua for the closest and friendliest relations between their country and the United States.

Diaz and Moncada also declared that they favored the retention of the United States Marines in Nicaragua until the training of the Central American republic's national guard is completed.

This would take about two years, President-elect Moncada estimated, and he expressed the belief that at the meantime the Marine units could be reduced to about 1,000 men.

Both Nicaraguan officials declared that the construction of the canal would be economically advantageous and also a bulwark to the liberties of the American republics.

President Diaz added that he already had asked the American Government to permit the Marines to regulate the Nicaraguan election in 1932.

The proposed Nicaraguan Canal was described by Moncada as a project which would bind your country and ours by a bulwark of freedom and demonstration of liberty.

The Nicaraguan president-elect declared that it was the duty of his country to contribute to the security of the canal and therefore he felt that the United States-Nicaraguan treaty, which would be signed in Washington, would be a bulwark to the liberties of the American republics.

Both candidates said that they would like to see the canal built "tomorrow" and that they would support the President-elect in his views on the project.

ONTARIO-TO HAVANA AVIATOR, ILL, HALTS

Flo Has to Break Nonstop Dash 50 Miles From Goal; To Continue Today.

CAFFEINE PILLS BLAMED

Key West, Fla., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—Leonard S. Flo's attempted nonstop flight from Walkerville, Ont., to Havana, Cuba, failed today when the youthful aviator was within less than a hundred miles of his goal.

Seized with illness, after his long vigil at the controls, Flo was forced to land here at 4:22 o'clock this afternoon and was taken to a hospital. The aviator refused an advice of a physician to go to bed and went instead to a hotel.

The landing was made at the airport about 8 miles from the city, and hospital authorities said the aviator reached there about 5:30 o'clock. A physician said Flo's illness was due to capsules containing caffeine, taken by the youth to keep him awake.

After taking off from Walkerville last night at 11:07 o'clock, Flo flew steadily toward his goal. Early this morning he passed over Atlanta and shortly after noon passed Tampa, where he flew low waving to persons below. The course thereafter lay along the sparsely settled southwestern portion of the peninsula and across Florida Bay and the Keys into Key West.

Key West is only 90 miles from Havana, where Flo had hoped to land at dusk on Columbia field.

Before turning in for the night, Flo left orders that he be not disturbed. He left a note for newspaper men in regard to his plans, which stated briefly that he would fly tomorrow to Havana and plan a nonstop flight from there to Detroit.

When Flo landed there was no one at the field except officials of the Pan-American Air Line, who were waiting for an incoming plane from Havana. The men took Flo to the Marine Hospital.

This would take about two years, President-elect Moncada estimated, and he expressed the belief that at the meantime the Marine units could be reduced to about 1,000 men.

Both Nicaraguan officials declared that the construction of the canal would be economically advantageous and also a bulwark to the liberties of the American republics.

President Diaz added that he already had asked the American Government to permit the Marines to regulate the Nicaraguan election in 1932.

The proposed Nicaraguan Canal was described by Moncada as a project which would bind your country and ours by a bulwark of freedom and demonstration of liberty.

The Nicaraguan president-elect declared that it was the duty of his country to contribute to the security of the canal and therefore he felt that the United States-Nicaraguan treaty, which would be signed in Washington, would be a bulwark to the liberties of the American republics.

SECOND MAN TAKEN AS HATCHET KILLER

Spokane Suspect Admits Two Women's Deaths; Omaha Wife Identifies Bird.

SAYS HE KILLED HUSBAND

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—Earl Williams, negro, held here on suspicion that he might be the Omaha (Neb.) "hatchet slayer," was tentatively identified by the chief of detectives of that city over long-distance telephone tonight, Chief Wesley Turner, of the Spokane police department, said.

Turner said that the Nebraska officer was starting immediately for Spokane. Williams was asked several questions based on the slaying of Mrs. Walter Reaso and her sister, Miss Creta Brown, in Omaha, the police chief said. After the interview Chief Turner said the Nebraska officer told him he "was sure" Williams was the man wanted in Omaha.

Robert Bushnell, 15, and John Rice, 16, boys for the Chronicle, were standing on a street corner when the negro approached them, asking if one of them wanted to earn a nickel by writing a letter for him. Rice agreed to do it, and Bushnell produced a notebook and pencil.

The boys grew suspicious and while Rice "stalled" the negro along, Bushnell called a patrolman and he was taken to the station where he began his confession.

Police say they believe the negro is insane. They telegraphed Omaha authorities immediately for verification of Williams' story.

PEDESTAL TRAFFIC ERROR'S PROBLEM

Officials' Object Is to Treat Autoists Justly, but Halt Reckless Driving.

CLUB VIEW INCONSISTENT

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Whether the usually law-abiding motorists whose occasional infractions of the traffic laws are of an irritating and minor character is to be taken into court and there submitted to treatment accorded the common law violator, or whether he is to be summoned for an informal hearing before the traffic authorities are questions to which local motorists will give serious thought.

The problem has been presented for the consideration of local motorists by the controversy which has arisen over the summoning by the Traffic Office of motorists whose records show repeated violations of the traffic code.

There are some motorists who believe that the action of the traffic authorities is nothing short of a form of tyranny, while other drivers of automobiles are of opinion that the purpose of the traffic laws is to bring the officials whose function it is to supervise motoring in general into closer contact with those who drive motor cars.

Set off against this favorable attitude in some quarters, is the attack on the part of summoning motorists to explain their records made by the American Automobile Association on the ground that it supplies a further means of punishing the law-abiding driver.

The only purpose in calling those whose infractions of the law have been numerous to a meeting with traffic officials is to learn, if possible, the cause of these repeated violations and at the same time to give the authorities an opportunity to determine the extent of the offender's knowledge of the code.

Back of the authorities' action, it may be stated with the greatest of certainty, are no tyrannical motives nor any attempt to annoy the motorist.

Observers whose experience or study of traffic conditions here and elsewhere leads them to look upon an effective driver's license law as the greatest safeguard against those who are unfit to drive, are in favor of the present adoption by the District of Columbia as a definitely progressive step.

But they hold to this opinion only in the hope that it will be rigidly enforced. Suggestions, therefore, that the traffic officials should wait until a certain number of infractions of the law and fail to drive in such a manner as not to jeopardize the safety of individuals or property.

It is possible, it may be pointed out, for a permit to be granted to a car for a period of time, during which the driver is to be given a satisfactory examination and give a creditable demonstration of his ability to operate a car in a limited way, but when the driver is granted the privilege to roam at will in every day traffic, the error of granting the permit

GARNER EXONERATED ON CHARGE OF FRAUD

House Election Committee
Ends Inquiry in Fifteenth
Texas District.

CLASH MARKS HEARING

McAllen, Tex., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—The House election committee today closed its investigation of Representative John Garner's successful campaign for reelection in the Fifteenth Texas Congressional District and in effect exonerated the veteran Democratic leader of the House an expression of confidence against charges of excessive campaign expenditures and illegal Mexican voting brought by his defeated primary opponent, Sid Hardin, of Mission.

After a hot verbal tiff between Chairman Lehigh, New Jersey (Republican), and Representative Loring M. Black (Democrat), New York, over the committee's jurisdiction, the investigators turned to further inquiry into alleged assaults on the purity of the ballot in Hidalgo County's general election.

"Independents," composed of Democrats and Republicans, opposed to the reorganizing administration, are contesting the administration reelection, alleging various irregularities.

Hardin testified that he withdrew his candidacy for Garner's election rather than face the threat of indictment on libel charges.

Garner, as a sworn witness, defended himself by his record as a public official against any charge of corruption and Representative Carl R. Chidcomb, of Illinois, without dissent from his committee colleagues, stated that the committee was "amazed" to find any foundation to charges against Garner.

Chidcomb, a Republican, recalled his frequent opposition to Garner on the House ways and means committee.

The clash between Lehigh and Black came when Black insisted that the committee was going beyond its jurisdiction in hearing testimony as to alleged illegality in the composition of the Hidalgo County grand jury.

Charges Sheriff Dominated.

Perry Perkins, of Mercedes, testified that Sheriff A. Y. Baker had dominated the county politically for many years and that the grand jury "was composed of the same bunch."

After a heated exchange of words, Perry Perkins was permitted to proceed, and Black's remarks were left in the record.

MONAGHAN, MACKAY TO WAR ON GUNMEN

Philadelphia Prosecutor and Mayor Enter Into Pact to Clean City.

GAMBLING VICTIM TALKS

GAVE ORDERS UP TO LAST

Philadelphia, Nov. 27 (A.P.)—District Attorney John Monaghan, directing the special grand jury investigation of bootlegging and police corruption, and Mayor Harry A. Mackay today entered into a pact to drive all gunmen out of Philadelphia.

The mayor told Monaghan he would utilize every policeman in Philadelphia in the work, and Monaghan said his entire force of county detectives would exert all its efforts in the same direction.

The agreement was made when Monaghan paid his first visit to the mayor's office since the opening last August of the grand jury investigation which has resulted in the mayor's appointment, Harry C. Davis, resigning from directorship of the department of public safety and the ousting or imprisonment of numerous policemen and police officials.

Gunmen Responsible for Visit.

The district attorney said that the immediate reason impelling him to call on the mayor for aid in ridding the city of gunmen was the fact that he had received information that three gunmen had been imported into this city from Chicago.

Monaghan today brought Charles F. Toomey, who lost to gambler $342,000, which he embezzled from a trust company, before the grand jury in connection with the investigation of police-protected gambling.

Toomey now is serving a sentence of 10 to 30 years, imposed in October, 1920.

"Toomey was fleeced by gamblers of the entire $342,000," said Monaghan. "The bulk of it went to a chain of gambling houses."

The building of the department was owned or operated by conspicuous figures in the politics of certain wards, Monaghan said.

Keen Toomey as Big Aid.

"I believe Toomey will throw a lot of light on the subject of protected gambling in this city," Monaghan continued. "Very important information was given by him to the grand jury."

In the case of Toomey, however, we get the testimony not of a man who was himself a gambling house proprietor, but one who came in contact with such establishments as a victim.

Gilchrist, former gambler, now in jail for the illegal possession of narcotics, recently testified before the grand jury that he voluntarily offered "to take the lid off" the gambling monopoly in this city, which he declared was operated by a combination of police, politicians and gamblers.

Toomey was an assistant secretary of a trust company and he confessed that over a period of four years he had embezzled money from an estate in the care of the trust company.

which was ordered at full speed to Barse-Salam late today, will carry the royal party at forced speed through the Suez Canal to Brindisi, Italy, where the prince will board a specially chartered train for the 27-hour trip to London.

The water trip from Barse-Salam to Brindisi is about 4,700 miles—a trip of perhaps eight or nine days.

Another plan would be for the prince to transfer from the Enterprise to another warship somewhere near Suez. Thence, under forced draft, to Brindisi and overland to England.

Hint to Return Given.

The prince's decision to return was made after he was notified by cable of his father's condition today in a message which intimated that it would be best if he returned immediately. It was learned from reliable sources. Previous messages had kept the prince in touch with the king's condition and advised him to remain close to the single telegraph office in the jungle territory.

The message received by Premier Salazar tonight was dated at Dodoma. It said:

"In view of the illness of his majesty, the king, my brother and I are returning to England as soon as possible."

In that crisp message, which was rushed by courier to the Dodoma telegraph office and sent crackling over the wireless cables to London, the heir to the British throne readily gave up what is believed to have been his last real vacation. Due to King George's illness, the prince would not be able to see on his final voyage with the heir to the British throne readily gave up what is believed to have been his last real vacation.

Important Message Sent.

The action of members of the king's family and the bulletins issued by physicians in the last 12 hours, although there was a general feeling that the king's condition might possibly be improved, there had been no indication in the late official bulletins whether the congestion of his lung and pleurisy which had caused several restless days and nights had abated.

Only a short while before the order for the Enterprise to proceed, Dr. D. S. Zaurich, there had been no indication in the late official bulletins whether the congestion of his lung and pleurisy which had caused several restless days and nights had abated.

The "low countries" were the worst sufferers from the storm. Dykes went down along the coasts and on tidal streams, and even higher by unusual tides, swept over wide stretches. Houses were demolished, fields inundated, live stock drowned and outright suffering inflicted upon large sections of the population.

The death toll in Holland alone was estimated at 28. This, however, included 27 members of the crew of the Italian steamer Salerno, which went to pieces off Zandvoort, where she had grounded Sunday night. The Italian sailors perished almost within sight of the shore.

In terse sentences, Leslie Watson, young second officer of the Vestris, told the story of how Capt. Carey went down with his ship.

"The ship was so badly hurt in the disaster that he had been unable to leave his hospital bed until today to testify at the Federal inquiry before the Vestris's court of inquiry."

Reports from South Africa through-out the day, however, said that an "important message" had been received to the Prince of Wales by courier.

Progress Made, Says Duke.

The Duke of York, second son of the king, Queen Mary and Sir William Jonson-Hicks had given indications throughout the day that the king was improved.

The duke announced at a business men's luncheon which he addressed that his father was slightly improved this morning. He said that the play was distressing but "from the nature of his illness progress must be made and must have its ups and downs."

But, he said, he was heartily glad to see the king's condition improved. He said that the play was distressing but "from the nature of his illness progress must be made and must have its ups and downs."

Jonson-Hicks, in a speech at Dartford, Kent, said the Duke of York had told him the king was distinctly better.

The queen and princess Mary indicated improvement in his majesty's condition by making personal visits to the king's condition. They were accompanied by a number of men and women gathered around the palace gates as they left in an automobile.

The public, however, felt growing anxiety over the king's condition, and the press conceded the seriousness of his illness, which has developed rapidly during the seven days King George has been confined to bed in a sound-proof room.

Fever Cause of Worry.

It was realized that a 63-year-old man pitting his constitution against an attack of pleurisy was a condition to which the king was most susceptible. The king's condition was most susceptible to an attack of pleurisy was a condition to which the king was most susceptible.

The successive bulletins which have been issued during the last week show the development of a common cold into some extension of one lung followed by an extension of the "mischief" and then the king's condition was most susceptible to an attack of pleurisy was a condition to which the king was most susceptible.

Although at first the press interpreted the official bulletins reassuringly, noting that the king maintained his strength, the reassurances and fever, which continued caused increased worry.

The Daily Mail expressed the temper of feeling today when it said:

"Anxiety will not end until the king's temperature returns to normal and he throws off the attack of pleurisy. The ordinary course of such infection of the lungs would not give hope for immediate marked improvement for some hours, but after that, all hope is gone."

There was no indication tonight that the fever had decreased greatly.

Earth's Old Weight 592

Quintillion Tons Light

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Nov. 27.—In these days when to reduce is one of the primary ambitions of feminine existence, Mother Earth has just learned that she is some 592,000,000,000,000,000 (592 quintillion) tons heavier than had hitherto been known.

The earth was last weighed about 30 years ago by an English scientist and a retired Jesuit. These men, working independently of each other, one in Great Britain, the other in a monastery in Bohemia came to the same conclusion and placed the weight of the earth at about six sextillion—the figure 6 followed by 21 ciphers—tons.

Five years ago Dr. Paul H. Heyl, of the United States Bureau of Standards, began weighing the earth in a subterranean chamber in Washington, D. C., in an attempt to substitute exact figures for some of the 21 ciphers of his predecessors.

His results, given in a speech at Cooper Union tonight, indicate that the earth weighs a little more than six septillion, 592 quintillion tons.

DEATH TOLL MOUNTS

IN EUROPE'S FLOODS

Holland Reports Loss of 58 in Stricken Regions; Much of Belgium Inundated.

WATER FAMINE ARISES

London, Nov. 27 (A.P.)—The British Isles today had a welcome respite from the gales which in recent days ravaged almost the whole of Europe. In Belgium and Holland there were signs of abatement in the tempest, but these low-lying countries were faced with a big task in the repairing of damage or in fortifying the dikes which threaten the land with the next high tide. Channel shipping still was under a heavy handicap tonight.

The "low countries" were the worst sufferers from the storm. Dykes went down along the coasts and on tidal streams, and even higher by unusual tides, swept over wide stretches. Houses were demolished, fields inundated, live stock drowned and outright suffering inflicted upon large sections of the population.

SANTA'S GIFT SHOP AMAZES HIS GUESTS

Huge Castle Filled With Toys and Presents for All Good Children.

WASHINGTON HAS SHARE

By HOLLY BERRY
(Special Correspondent of The Post).

Santa Claus' Castle, Nov. 27.—After shaking hands with Santa Claus we were escorted up the steps of the castle past a line of gnomes who stood at attention, just as soldiers stand when officers are passing. The great portal of bronze and gold inlaid doors swung open and we looked down a corridor which seemed miles in length. The ceiling was as high as the greatest cathedral and supported by magnificent carved columns.

Upon the walls, which glittered like snow, hung pictures of the birth of Christ, the shepherds and the wise men. Wherever we gazed, Christmas symbols were to be seen.

Santa then led us to a wing of the castle where he has his own rooms. Mrs. Kleinschmidt, wife of the pilot of The Post's expedition, was anxious to see this part of the house, to learn just how Santa lives.

There was a bright fire crackling in the fireplace, and we made ourselves comfortable in easy chairs. Santa clapped his hands and a dozen shiny fairies with butterfly wings appeared. They set a dining table with frosted cakes, nuts, jellies and all the good things we have at Christmas time. Then they poured tea and Mrs. Kleinschmidt had her great wish fulfilled—that of having tea with Santa Claus.

"If you are not too tired we will start looking over the castle," said the great man. "It will take several days to see it all."

We jumped up and followed him to another long corridor which seemed almost like the main street of a town. More gnomes appeared and Santa ordered them to open up the doors of the gift room.

Such a sight you'd never believe possible. As far as we could see to either side, ahead or above were toys and gifts of every description. They hung from the walls, the rafters and stood on shelves or just in piles on the floor. Thousands of gnomes were busy wrapping bundles, marking addresses, putting finishing touches on all kinds of toys. There were dolls for girls and railroad engines for boys with candy, oranges and thousands of other things which fill stockings on Christmas Eve.

We noted many gifts marked for Washington, D. C., but did not have time to stop and look at the names. Santa noticed that we had observed the Washington section.

"The boys and girls of Washington have been very good this year," he volunteered. "Some of my very best presents will be left there. I am glad, too, that so many wrote letters telling why they believed in me, for it makes me glad to know the children like me so well."

Santa has promised that tomorrow he will tell us how he makes his deliveries on Christmas Eve.

Court Asked to Drop WGY Radio Appeals

Dismissal of the appeals by the people of the State of New York and of the General Electric Co. to have Radio Station WGY, located at Schenectady, N. Y., was asked yesterday of the District Supreme Court by the Federal Radio Commission.

The commission also petitioned the court to vacate the recent temporary restraining order, which the court granted, permitting the station to operate on a full-time schedule. The commission seeks to have the radio station placed on a part-time program. Counsel for the commission, Louis Caldwell, argued that the appellate court to vacate the recent temporary restraining order, since the appeals complained of a decision of the commission. The case is scheduled for hearing on December 5.

Third Trial as Slayer Ends in Disagreement

New York, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—The jury at the third trial of Harry Hoffman for the murder of Mrs. Maud Bauer four years ago was unable to reach a verdict today and was discharged. The case went to the jury yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Bauer was shot to death on a lonely Staten Island road a few minutes after she left her stalled automobile to seek aid. At his first trial Hoffman was convicted of murder in the second degree, but the verdict was overturned on appeal. The second ended in a mistrial because of illness of Hoffman's counsel.

Student, Jailed 4 Months For Beard, Has New One

Warsaw, Nov. 27 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—After four months in military prison for refusal to obey his superior's order to shave off his beard in accordance with army regulations, Hirsch Frenkel, Rabbinic student of Tarnopol, emerged from prison today with a new beard. Frenkel faced his beard problem all over again when he rejoined his regiment and declared with the same determination that he can not, in conscience, violate the Biblical injunction against removing his beard. The student addressed a new petition to the military authorities and to Prime Minister Bartel to grant him permission to keep his beard.

BUREAU SEEKS FUND FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Budget, It Is Hoped, Will Provide Sum to Begin Work;
$500,000 Asked.

An appropriation to start work on the proposed new Business High School is expected to be recommended by the Bureau of the Budget in its estimates for the District of Columbia for the next fiscal year. The Board of Education has been trying for years to get a $500,000 initial appropriation in the regular budget to start work on the building which eventually would cost $1,500,000.

The District budget has been completed by the Bureau of the Budget, and will be awaiting Congress when that body convenes December 3. The amount recommended is understood to be close to the limit of $39,962,000, which was set in advance by the bureau.

Shortly after the convening of Congress, the District estimates will be turned over to the District subcommittee of the House appropriations committee. This subcommittee will put the estimates in the form of a regular appropriation bill, and it then will go to the House. After its passage by that body, it will be taken up by the Senate.

The Business High School item was one of a number of "supplemental" items which the Bureau of the Budget is said to have transferred to the regular estimates. These supplemental items totaled about $2,000,000.

It was reported that when the Business High School item was put into the regular budget, the item for an addition to the Park View School was eliminated. Citizens of Park View have objected to the proposed addition.

As has been the case in the last few years, the 1930 District appropriation bill will carry a proviso that the Federal Government pay a lump sum of $9,000,000 as its share of the District's expenses. The present tax rate of $1.70 on every $100 of assessed valuation on real estate will be continued.

REVOLTS IN UKRAINE COST 19 LIVES IN DAY

"Poverty Riots" Break Out;
Anti-Jewish Sentiment Reported Spreading.

Paris, Nov. 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Sixteen communities in the Charkoff district of the Ukraine have revolted against communist rule within the past fortnight, according to uncensored dispatches reaching here today from Russia.

Nineteen state functionaries were killed in a single day in these peasant uprisings, the messages state.

"Poverty riots" are also reported from other portions of the Ukraine, but the situation outside the Charkoff district is either less grave or else the revolts are not so well organized.

There is no indication that the revolting peasants have gotten out of hand, even in the region governed from Charkoff.

Anti-Jewish sentiment is reported to be becoming dangerous in the Ukrainian hunger belt, though the Jews are suffering as much as the other inhabitants as a result of the grain shortage.

To encourage revolts and to bring on a general state of disorder, anti-Soviet organizations are encouraging attacks on the Jews as communists.

Jewish students in the universities have been threatened with pogroms. At Voronezh University conditions have become impossible for the Jewish students. An official investigation has been ordered into the suicide threat of a young Jewish student named Maizel, who left a letter saying he could no longer "bear persecution by professors and students."

COOLIDGE EXPECTS FARM RELIEF SOON

Anticipates Passage at Short Session, Believing Long Debate Unnecessary.

McNARY BILL PAVES WAY

By ALBERT W. FOX.
President Coolidge believes that farm relief legislation can be disposed of at the coming short session of Congress if the leaders at the Capitol will get together and reach a substantial agreement among themselves. But he is not inclined to intervene in the discussions leading up to the hoped-for agreement, as he regards the farm relief legislative program as a matter for the legislative and not the executive branch of the Government to deal with.

It was stated at the White House yesterday that Mr. Coolidge believes that the feasibility of farm relief legislation at the coming session depends primarily on the method which Congress adopts in dealing with the problem. Renewal of long-drawn-out debates in the halls of Congress, with no advance agreement by the leaders as to the basic features of a proposed bill, will, in the President's opinion, not be productive of results.

It is inferred from the President's position that such discussion would be regarded at the White House as a waste of time at the short session, without obviating the necessity of a special session to deal with the farm relief question.

Extra Session in Doubt.
There is uncertainty in White House circles as to whether a special session will be called after March 4 next. This uncertainty was linked with the possibility of disposing of farm relief before March 4 and this latter possibility is directly linked with the ability of leaders in Congress to agree upon the substantial terms of an acceptable bill before attempting to enact such a bill into law.

It is understood that some progress has been made at the Capitol toward the sort of agreement which Mr. Coolidge hopes to see materialize. Senator McNary has been preparing a bill which retains some of the features of the McNary-Haugen bill, but eliminates the equalization fee and other features which were objectionable to the Coolidge administration.

McNary has been in touch with his colleagues and the bill is expected to include provision for a Federal farm board and other features known to meet with the approval of President Coolidge and President-elect Hoover.

Cruiser Bill Is Factor.
Hope for farm relief legislation at the coming session is dependent to some extent upon the amount of time consumed by the Senate in discussion of the cruiser-building bill and ratification of the Kellogg antiwar pact. The fact that Senator Swanson, ranking Democratic member of the foreign relations committee, has announced that he will not oppose the pact in its present form, and the implied assurance that he will oppose reservations, may appreciably shorten the debate on the treaty, according to the prevailing view.

Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, announced several days ago that there would be considerable debate on the pact, but

SORORITY DANCE COMMITTEE

There now appears little need of long deliberation over a matter in which there is virtually no divided opinion. Protracted debate on the cruiser bill is also regarded as unnecessary. This bill has passed the House and been carefully considered by the Senate naval affairs committee and would have passed in the last session, except for the legislative jam caused by the Boulder Dam filibuster.

Floods in Costa Rica Taking Toll of Lives

(Associated Press.)
Floods in Costa Rica extending from San Jose to Limon have caused loss of life among laborers and serious material loss and damage.

American Minister Roy T. Davis, at San Jose reported yesterday that the State Department that the railway lines between San Jose and Limon would probably not be able to operate until March 1. The local Red Cross is raising funds for relief.

Seaboard Air Line Gets Branch Into Hopewell

(Associated Press.)
Permission to build into Hopewell, Va., was given the Seaboard Air Line yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission over the protest of the Norfolk & Western Railway.

The proposal contemplates the organization of the Prince George & Chesterfield Railway, which will spend about $1,000,000 in constructing from Hopewell, a distance of approximately 16 miles, into Hopewell, with yards and other facilities. Industries at Hopewell, particularly those dealing with rayon chemicals, the commission held, justify the Seaboard's extension though the Norfolk & Western is now serving the city.

ROSENWALD GIVES COLLEGE $500,000

Hebrew Union, School for Rabbis, Must Raise Sum of $3,000,000 More.

TO BE ENDOWMENT FUND

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Julius Rosenwald, philanthropist and merchant, of Chicago, today gave $500,000 to the Hebrew Union College, rabbinical training school here. The gift was made known by the college board of governors immediately after it voted acceptance of the gift.

Mr. Rosenwald attached a provision to his pledge requiring that the college endowment fund must contain $3,500,000 besides the $500,000 by July 1, 1929, and that $3,000,000 of the $4,000,000 shall be available in cash or in pledges of not more than ten annual installments.

The philanthropist offered the $500,000 early in November to Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times and chairman of the institution's endowment fund campaign. It was announced by Ludwig Vogelstein, chairman of the executive board, Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

Mr. Vogelstein said that Mr. Ochs and Henry Morgenthau, former United States Ambassador to Turkey, volunteered to tour the United States in an effort to complete the endowment fund and meet the provision of Mr. Rosenwald's offer.

The $3,000,000 shall be donated, he said with an understanding that in addition to the annual interest, from 3 to 5 per cent of the capital shall be set aside annually by the trustees to be used for current expenses or placed into a surplus or reserve fund to be drawn upon for budget or other requirements.

EZRA MEEKER.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—The condition of Ezra Meeker, 97-year-old trail blazer of the Northwest, who is seriously ill at a hotel here, was reported today by physicians as unchanged. Relatives held little hope for his recovery.

Founded by Dr. Isaac M. Wise in 1875, Dr. Wise also organized Reform Judaism in America.

For years Mr. Rosenwald has been one of the largest contributors to the college maintenance fund. He gave $50,000 in 1910 to the building fund, $25,000 in 1925 to the library collection and $50,000 in 1928 toward a new $250,000 library, which was completed three weeks ago. He is vice president of the executive board of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, the patron society of the college.

His benefactions include large sums, one of $1,000,000 for World War relief, $5,000,000 toward a $10,000,000 fund for Russian agriculture, $250,000 endowment for Hamilton and Tuskegee Institute, $2,600,000 which resulted in 3,433 completed negro rural school buildings throughout the South, and, together with Mrs. Rosenwald, has given $1,750,000 for University of Chicago buildings.

Candidates Report On Campaign Costs

Republicans in Cumberland Came Out Behind and Democrats Ahead.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 27.—Reports filed with the clerk of the circuit court show that over $22,000 was spent by the Republican and Democratic parties in Allegany County at the recent election, far exceeding all previous expenditures. The Republicans have a deficit of about $2,000, while the Democrats have a balance of $22,786.

Somerville Nicholson, treasurer for Frederick N. Zihlman, re-elected, to Congress for the seventh term on the Republican ticket, reported $2,742.76 contributed in the county, $200 being the highest amount by an individual, while the national Republican congressional committee sent $500. The entire amount was expended. Grace S. Shaffer, secretary-treasurer of the Republican State central committee, reported a total of $9,558.92 spent. Through Miss Shaffer's efforts several hundred Republican women contributed in amounts from $1 to $5, totaling $1,930.80.

Robert E. King, treasurer of the Democratic State central committee for Allegany County, reported $7,088 contributed, the largest amount, $3,800, from Thomas Swans, treasurer of the State committee, of which $6,840.14 was expended.

In addition $2,000 was spent by the Allegany County Smith-for-President Club, according to a report filed by Frank N. Weber, treasurer.

David J. Lewis, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for Congress, has not yet filed his report.

"There are no repairs of a building more annoying or more costly than those that are necessitated by rusting metals."

RAYMOND HOOD, like the big majority of America's leading architects, recommends the use of Copper, Brass and Bronze materials in all buildings—modest homes as well as towering commercial structures—as the only way of guarding against the expense of repairs and replacements resulting from rusting metals. In his recent letter Mr. Hood says further—

"Such repairs never occur where Copper and Brass have been used and are almost inevitable after a certain number of years where iron materials have been installed."

If you plan to build, buy or remodel, be guided by the advice of these famous architects. Insist on Brass pipe, Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures. Don't accept substitutes. Other metals may resist rust for a few years. But Copper, Brass and Bronze are rust-proof. They give unfailing service under the most severe weather conditions.

Write our Building Service Department for full information. There is no obligation.

Considering their life-long service and their absolute protection against rust, Copper, Brass and Bronze are not expensive even in the construction of small homes.

YANKEE IMPERIALISM.

Mr. Hoover's visit to Corinto was warmly welcomed by the government and people of Nicaragua. Representatives of both political parties greeted the American President-elect, and men who had fought on opposite sides during the recent civil strife joined in the reception to Mr. Hoover.

Where is the evidence that Nicaragua has been ground under the heel of American imperialism? Surely, if the Nicaraguan people were boiling with indignation over American aggression they would make their feelings manifest. But they were uproarious in their welcome to Col. Lindbergh, and Mr. Hoover was welcomed by the entire population of Corinto with every indication of cordiality.

American critics of the administration's policy in Nicaragua are placed in an embarrassing situation by the failure of the Nicaraguan people to support their contentions. The Nicaraguans have not only settled their differences under the good offices of the United States, but have held a fair election and will soon have a government of their own choice. The friendly aid of the United States is appreciated by both sides in Nicaragua, to such an extent as to cause them to unite in asking the United States to supervise future elections. This request is not a subterfuge, concocted by the United States and imposed upon the Nicaraguans, but is the voluntary expression of a people who are striving for stable government and who appreciate the disinterested friendship of the United States.

Mr. Hoover voices the sentiment of the American people when he congratulates the political parties of Nicaragua upon their disposition to promote domestic peace by settling their differences through the ballot box. His visit to Corinto is an assurance of his own good will toward that country, which will be reflected in the forthcoming administration. President Coolidge's steadfast adherence to a correct policy in Nicaragua is bearing good fruit, and Mr. Hoover's address at Corinto clearly shows that this policy will not be changed.

Instead of being at war at this moment, with untold miseries and with danger of continual bloodshed, the people of Nicaragua are well on the way toward peace and prosperity under a government of their own choice. And this is Yankee imperialism!

MEXICO'S NEW PRESIDENT.

Mexico is to be congratulated upon the prospect of a peaceful inauguration of a provisional president this week, rather than another round of bloodshed and revolution. The assassination of President-elect Obregon threw that nation into momentary turmoil, and there was general fear of a flare-up of national or perhaps international significance. The fact that a new president has been peacefully chosen and that the assassin has been tried and convicted by process of law indicates that the Mexican government is competent to control affairs and gives new hope for the future of our southern neighbor.

Emilio Portes Gil was unanimously chosen president at a joint session of the Mexican Legislature on September 25. Inauguration ceremonies will be held on Friday of this week, and the new chief executive will serve until February 5, 1930. In November, 1929, Mexico will hold a special election to choose a president to serve the remainder of the six-year term for which Gen. Obregon was elected.

The new president shares the views of President Calles and he is expected to carry on the policies of the present government. His choice was widely acclaimed by the Mexican press, and the people are confident that his term will be a step of progress away from recent chaotic conditions. Mr. Portes Gil has served two terms as governor of the State of Tamaulipas and four terms in the national Chamber of Deputies. He is a well-trained lawyer and has been a member of the supreme court of the State of Sonora. Extensive activities in social reform and popular education are credited to him.

It is encouraging to see Mexico come through such a crisis as the assassination of a president with such admirable self-control. This does not indicate by any means that Mexico's troubles are over, but it is a step in the right direction, and brings with it a hope that from this beginning Mexico may accomplish real national unity.

Following the inauguration ceremonies there will be organized on Saturday the "great national revolutionary party," which aims to consolidate all factions in the country which support the Obregonista revolutionary principles. It is expected that President Calles will be chosen head of the party, and those who see hope for Mexico in the present administration are looking forward to election of this party's candidate to the presidency next November.

THE DISTRICT BUDGET.

The Bureau of the Budget has completed for transmission to Congress the final draft of the District's estimates for the next fiscal year. An appropriation approximating the $39,962,000 fixed last summer by presidential order is indicated, although a number of the items contained in the original document have been altered considerably and in some cases eliminated entirely. In place of those removed the bureau has substituted others originally in the list submitted by the Commissioners as "supplemental estimates." The total budget represents a reduction considerably in excess of $6,000,000 in the funds sought by the heads of District departments. It is based upon a Federal contribution of $9,000,000—the so-called lump sum—and continuance of the existing tax rate of $1.70 per $100 of assessed valuation on real estate and personal property.

The District government, in several of its functions, will be handicapped by the reductions in the budget. Schools, particularly, will suffer, not in their routine operation but by having to postpone for another year several important projects having to do with provision for future needs. Not all the trimming of the school budget was done by the bureau. The Commissioners submitted the original estimates to vigorous pruning last summer, a step they were forced to take in order to bring the total to the figure fixed by the bureau.

All in all, under existing practice, it may be said that the District has fared reasonably well with its budget. Certainly the existing tax rate, so high that it constitutes a heavy burden, should not be raised; and until Washington increases its population considerably there appears to be no hope of obtaining additional income through the $1.70 rate. Washington's financial troubles arise wholly and only because Congress has not seen fit to abandon the inequitable and unjust lump-sum in favor of a proportionate method of making the Government's contributions toward the expenses of running the Capital City.

As Washington grows its financial needs increase, and the unfairness of the lump sum becomes increasingly apparent. As the Federal Government extends its local holdings and operations, it becomes an increasing burden upon the local community. All Government real estate escapes taxation. Every effort that has been made to get Congress to reconsider the lump-sum method of making District appropriations has failed. The Senate is willing to return to the 60-40 rule in this connection, but the House has remained adamant. But the injustice will not last forever. The Government must eventually pay its proper share of the cost of the National Capital. The increasing injustice of the lump-sum appropriation is itself forcing the issue.

THE NEW RADIO SERVICE.

After careful study of the new broadcasting system the Radio Commission is satisfied that it works as well in practice as it promised to work in theory. The whistles and heterodynes still prevalent in certain sections of the band, it is said, are caused only by persistent deviation from assigned frequencies by various stations. The trouble is not with the new system. As soon as every station in the country finds its new position and makes provision for adhering to it without wobbling, the public will have a radio service superior to any it has ever known.

Capt. Guy Hill, engineer in charge of broadcasting for the commission, has recommended that all stations deviating by more than 500 cycles from their allotted position be deprived of their licenses for a 60-day period. "When a broadcasting station wanders all over a range of 25,000 cycles," he says, "it spoils not only its own program so far as listeners are concerned but also the programs of innocent stations on the two adjoining channels through which it swings." The public has become sufficiently radio-wise to understand what Capt. Hill is talking about, but it does not believe that a time has arrived where the drastic remedies he suggests should be considered necessary.

It has been no small task for radio stations to change over to their new assignments. Most of them are to be commended for the efficient and effective fashion in which they made the switch. Many stations, however, have not been able to obtain and adjust new crystals by which wave lengths are controlled.

Conditions in the air are as far superior to those of two weeks ago as the new allocation plan is superior to the old. In another week or so the remaining interference should be eliminated.

GRAVELLY POINT AIRPORT.

The enthusiasm manifest at the Board of Trade's "airport" meeting Thursday night indicates that the Gravelly Point project will have the undivided support of all Washington. More than 1,500 business men of the city attended the meeting, greeting with approval the pledges of speakers high in official and civil life to do their utmost to bring the project to realization. The differences that arose among sponsors of several suggested sites for the airport seem to have been ironed out. With an undivided public behind Gravelly Point it should not be difficult to impress upon Congress the fact that the time to act has arrived.

In a telegram addressed to the meeting, expressing his regret that he was unable to be in personal attendance, Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, said: "The airport is essential to any system of air transport, and any community that does not make provision for the establishment of an airport must of necessity be excluded from the benefits that this most recent means of communication offers now, and promises in the future. I hope that appropriate legislation may be passed during the coming session of Congress which will immediately guarantee an airport in our Capital comparable with the best abroad." Washington should consider these words carefully. It should realize, if it does not realize already, that the growth of the city will be retarded if it does not make provision for its inclusion upon the airways maps of the Nation.

There may be bickering between Washington's representatives and Congress regarding the method of paying for the development of Gravelly Point. Congress probably will try to make the District pay the entire cost. The Washington airport, however, will serve the Government as well as the municipality. Certainly it will be spotted in brilliant color upon the national defense maps of the area. Washington has no intention of trying to evade its fair share of the cost of the development.

Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, American war ace, gave the meeting some facts regarding commercial aviation. Thirty-five thousand air miles are flown in the United States every 24 hours, he said, more than are flown in all the rest of the world combined. Those who do not recognize the fact that commercial air transport already has become a vital factor in the national transportation system, he added, will suffer a severe penalty for their lack of foresight. Washington should not penalize itself by failing to impress upon Congress the necessity of developing Gravelly Point. Every effort should be made to obtain legislation during the short session.

WORLD SPIRITS.

While Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins and his pilot, Ben Eielson, were making the first airplane flight in the Antarctic a few days ago, the last chapter in the life story of Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole, was being completed in Copenhagen. In compliance with the wish Capt. Amundsen expressed just before he left on his fatal Arctic flight in search of the Noble expedition, the medals awarded him by governments and scientific societies were sold to remove his name from the bankruptcy list. The famous explorer was in debt about $4,000, the remaining deficit on his attempted flight to the North Pole in 1924.

Knowing the dangers that he faced in his attempt to save the Noble expedition, Capt. Amundsen instructed his attorneys before leaving Copenhagen: "Make me a free man. See to it that my debts are paid." It is characteristic of the man that he wished every cent of his obligations wiped out even though the expense had been incurred in behalf of all humanity. Amundsen deserved the tribute paid him too late by King Victor Emmanuel. The medal awarded by the king was announced on the day when the explorer's other medals were sold. Its citation ends with the following words:

"A sublime example of human solidarity, of bravery and chivalry."

The world is often forgetful of the services of those world spirits who devote themselves to human betterment, far from centers of population. Explorers of the frozen continents face dangers in many respects greater than those who conquer the air. They should have generous recognition for their contributions to human welfare.

At present there are two expeditions seeking out new facts which will be of value to weather observers, geographers and scientists of the future. Capt. Wilkins is on Deception Island off the Antarctic coast, preparing to chart coast lines of the frozen southern continent and to discover bases suitable for weather observatories. He is also seeking to determine whether the Andes mountain chain which is submerged at Cape Horn continues southward across the Antarctic continent. Commander Byrd's expedition is headed for a base nearer the South Pole, almost due south from New Zealand. He plans to make an extended stay in the polar region to continue the study of this frozen country which was begun by the Amundsen expedition.

"PRODUCTION" AIRPLANES.

Formerly automobiles were hand fabricated. Consequently, they were expensive. Henry Ford was the first to discover the economies made possible by quantity production, and when he began building cars on a "production" basis the system was born that ultimately led to today's inexpensive but thoroughly satisfactory and mechanically fine motor vehicle.

Airplane manufacturing today stands in a position similar to that occupied by automobile manufacturing 25 years ago. Although gestures have been made toward adaptation of "production" principles to plane manufacture, airplanes generally are hand fabricated, and therefore they are expensive. Sooner or later the principles that made possible the inexpensive motor vehicle will be adapted to plane manufacture, and the result will be better planes, costing considerably less than the most expensive ones on the market today.

The Cliff Durant-Larry Fisher program, recently announced, will bear watching. Durant is the son of W. C. Durant, the financier and automobile manufacturer, for whom he is acting, and Fisher is one of the seven Fisher brothers of General Motors fame. In company with other prominent automobile men, they have acquired an interest in the American Eagle Co. and are negotiating for control of companies making airplane accessories and motors to complete their organization. Presently there will be completed a new factory for the American Eagle Co. in which planes will be built upon a "production" basis, with raw material entering upon an assembly line at one end, and finished planes coming off the line at the other end. It is said that more than 75 automobile dealers have signed contracts for distributing the planes which will be turned out at the rate of 5 a day.

The question upon which depends the success or failure of this venture is whether the American people are ready to absorb a large output of medium-priced planes. Prominent aviation figures insist that the time is ripe; constantly they have cried for more and cheaper planes, aerodynamically and mechanically correct. The Durant-Fisher group should be able to supply this need.

One other important end will be achieved by the introduction of "production" methods to airplane manufacture. With planes now in the air, repair and replacement is an expensive process, each replacement part needing to be individually fitted. "Production" planes, however, will resemble one another as accurately as Ford cars. Ownership of a plane produced by the mass method will serve to reduce the upkeep cost of flying, and in flying as in motoring it "isn't the first cost, but the upkeep" that flattens the pocketbook.

If One Side Seems Wholly Black, Maybe You Are Blind on That Side.

By ROBERT QUILEN

THE curse of the American people is exaggeration—the habit of going to extremes—the customary assumption that whatever is true must be either all black or all white.

Every individual possessed of sufficient wit to form an opinion is a natural partisan. When confronted by any contest or moot question, he forms an opinion based on his observation, training, environment and natural limitations, and automatically "takes sides."

But if you will study the people of your acquaintance, you will observe that the "bigger" ones—the best educated, most intelligent, most prominent—usually are the most tolerant, the most level-headed, the least given to fanaticism.

If you remember the details of the recent political campaign, you will recall that few speeches seemed sensible to the opposition. Whatever one candidate said seemed silly or untruthful to the press and people who favored the other.

The morning following each speech of consequence, you could buy two newspapers with the assurance that one would denounce it and the other praise it. Whatever the actual merit of the speech, partisans saw in it the qualities their prejudices wished to see.

Thus it is in time of war and all religious controversy. One side sees nothing but good; the other sees nothing but evil.

If all wise men were on one side and all foolish men on the other, this State of affairs would seem sane and reasonable. But when there are wise men on both sides and fools on both sides, and yet all members of a faction unite in praise or condemnation, you come inevitably to the conclusion that partisanship and prejudice make men a little mad and expose them as creatures no longer capable of reasoning.

More and more, as a people, we become slaves to the habit of seeing but one side. The vice of exaggeration, encouraged by the existence of moot questions that touch our lives closely, becomes a part of our nature and we lose the capacity for level-headed thinking.

A partisan you must be if you have opinions and principles; but if you would keep your sanity intact, you must cultivate the habit of searching for and understanding the element of truth in the "other side" that causes men as sensible as yourself to espouse it.

When you become a blind partisan, ready to believe all evil of the opposition merely because it is the opposition, reason has deserted you and prejudice has your wits throttled.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Let the People Celebrate.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: President-elect Hoover may be opposed to any ostentation in the inauguration ceremonies, and may prefer to have the whole thing simple and quiet, but he can not prevent the crowd coming to Washington to see him take the oath of office. There was an old story that Thomas Jefferson rode alone down Pennsylvania avenue, tied his horse to a paling fence at the foot of Capitol Hill, and then wandered into the hall of the House and took the oath. The story was not true, of course, and since then the country has grown accustomed to see a new President conducted into office with much display.

It is proper and right that it should be so. He is chosen by the people, and that fact exalts the office far above that of ascending a throne, by the rule of primogeniture, or, as they delight to phrase it, "By the Grace of God." Genuine democracy does not mean throwing aside of all ceremony, all rejoicing, all pomp. We can be truly democratic and yet induct into the high office of Chief Magistrate the chosen of the people with popular display. The ceremony of taking the oath is simple enough, as it should be, but the people have a right to make a display of their rejoicing. When Mr. Hoover takes the oath by all means let us have a grand demonstration in the daytime, and fireworks at night, and let all the people rejoice that they live in a land where the people have a right to choose their ruler. Amen.

ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

Give Us Farm Relief Now.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why prolong the agony? For two years the present Congress has had before it the question of farm relief. It has been discussed, pro and con, and studied in all its bearings, by the members of both House and Senate. It has been discussed by the press, by political orators of all shades of opinion, and by President Coolidge and President-elect Hoover. The members must have made up their minds on the matter. If not they are incompetent for the high place they occupy. Why, then, put it off to a new Congress?

The new Congress will contain a large number of new members, who, in all probability, have not given the question the serious consideration it has received by the present members. They are not as well prepared to pass upon it, and if this Congress does not act no relief will be reached for at least another year. This, too, even though President Hoover should call an extra session to consider the question. It will have to be discussed all over, thus taking up time that ought to be given to other matters. It is a good, as well as an old saying, never put off until tomorrow what your hands find to do today.

It has been consented to by both parties that relief should be granted, and that the situation demands speedy action. Why, then, postpone it, as has been suggested? It is not, and ought not to be, a party question, any more than relief for the flood sufferers was a party question. It is a matter that confronts the country now. The people demand action; they want to have the question taken out of the public mind, and that the farmers may know what they are to do, and what to have. To delay will be criminal.

THEO. WATKINS.

Beware the Bus.

Houston Post-Dispatch. Scarcely a day passes but a collision between a bus and an auto is reported from some part of the country, and often there is a loss of life. If you have met a bus on a country highway you know that buses should be narrower or highways should be wider. The only thing to do when you see a bus coming is to get out, take your auto under your arm and climb a fence until the bus has gone on.

BRITEN PROPOSAL INTERESTS CANADIAN

Officials of Dominion Consider
Ottawa as Logical Place for Session.

NEWS SURPRISES THEM

that an old statute, the Logan act, forbids direct communication between a citizen of the United States and a foreign government about affairs of State, but it was suggested this was intended to apply to persons revealing information in a harmful way and that Representative Britten in trying to bring about a friendly solution of a controversy was trying to be helpful and could hardly be called to account under that law.

It also was recalled that Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, set a precedent when more than a year ago he engaged in an exchange of communications with President Calles of Mexico. At that time there were frowns at the State Department, and attention was called vaguely to the Logan act, but Borah smiled and nobody did anything.

Britten's cablegram to Premier Baldwin said: "Receiving your publicity expressed desire of November 13 for more frequent personal discussions between American and British representatives and remembering very pleasantly our personal participation in interparliamentary conferences both here and in Europe, I am impelled to suggest a point meeting of the committee on naval affairs of the United States House of Representatives and a selected committee of members of parliament for the purpose of friendly discussion and the hearing of testimony in connection with applying the principle of equality in sea power between Great Britain and the United States on all ships of war not already covered by the Washington treaty.

"Meeting to take place, preferably in Canada, after March 4, 1929, and each committee will report with recommendations to its respective government just as may now be done annually by the various groups of the Interparliamentary Union.

"Where there is so much genuine regret among the people of England and America over the failure of the last Geneva naval limitation conference, surely some way should be found for a meeting before 1931 when the five leading naval powers will again assemble at Washington. I will respect your personal desires in connection with these suggestions."

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—Canadian government officials declared tonight the suggestion of Representative Britten, of Illinois, to Premier Stanley Baldwin, that a conference be held in Canada between the United States House naval affairs committee and a committee of the British Parliament, to discuss equality of sea power, was the first intimation received here of such a meeting.

The suggestion is viewed in Canadian official circles as "very interesting." If any agreement is made to hold a conference in the Dominion, Ottawa was considered the logical place for the meeting.

Man, 80, Hangs Himself After Killing Wife, 70

Winchester, Tenn., Nov. 26 (United Press).—William Davis, 80, found hanging from a peach tree in his yard here today, befit his 70-year-old wife to death when she attacked him with a razor, officers believe. His wife's body was found in the house amid wrecked furniture. An ax, a hatchet and a razor had been used in the fight.

Both bodies were bruised about the heads and a blow over the eye from the butt of a shotgun is believed to have killed the woman. Davis was clad only in a blood-drenched nightgown. He told a neighbor yesterday that his wife had been ill-tempered for two days.

Rupture Kills 35,000 Annually—

—estimated on the basis of available official death records—one every 15 minutes is laid away—the burial certificate being marked "Rupture". Why? Because the unfortunate ones had neglected themselves or had been merely taking care of the swelling—a symptom of the affliction—and paying no attention to the cause.

What are you doing? Are you neglecting or perhaps even mistreating yourself by wearing a truss, appliance, or whatever name you choose to call it? At best, the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and should not be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. Its binding pressure retards blood circulation, thus robbing the weakened muscles of nourishment—the very thing they need most.

Learn how to close the hernial opening as nature intended so the rupture CAN'T come down. Fill out coupon below and mail TODAY.

Mascots Aboard Byrd Ship Homesick on Way to Pole

Cat Alone Cheerful Among Quadrupeds, Writes C. W. Kessler, of Antarctic Expedition—Crew in Good Spirits—Vessels in Race on South Pacific.

Sailors on the Byrd Antarctic expedition will be the most versatile in the world when they get back, according to Charles F. Kessler, of this city, member of the expedition. "We could qualify as a 'stevedore' with any outfit before we left New York," he writes the Navy press room, where he was formerly employed. "Then we did the usual work around deck as seamen and lookouts at night. Next came the wheel, and we became helmsmen overnight. We also had to give a hand below as coal passers, and some of us as firemen."

In his letter from Dunedin, N. Z., dated October 28, reaching the Navy Department yesterday, Kessler, former veteran Marine corporal, states the crew is in good spirits, but the mascots have not been doing so well, with the exception of the cat, which has been named Eleanor.

"We were presented with three dogs in Panama, and what a tough time they have had of it.

Bulldog Is Homesick.

"One, a bulldog, has been homesick and the others have been ill. One died but the other is still very sick. She may get over it, but will never look the same."

Kessler is aboard the Eleanor Bolling, expedition ship. The remainder of his letter follows: "We have just completed our nineteenth day out of Panama and have traveled 4,200 miles. We found the Pacific much rougher than usual and it looked for a while as though we would lose the coal that was being carried on deck. Our ship's cruising radius is not for the purpose of friendly discussion and the hearing of testimony in connection with applying the principle of equality in sea power between Great Britain and the United States on all ships of war not already covered by the Washington treaty.

"While the weather was a little rough, it brought relief from the heat we experienced down the East Coast. It was amazingly cool and we wore sweaters under pulkins and were quite comfortable. It was a great relief to our black gang. They did, however, find the footing a little difficult.

"As I said before, this ship is none too large and, while she is seaworthy enough, she is in a class by herself when it comes to rolling and pitching. The past few days have been comparatively calm and everybody is enjoying the letup.

"We seem to have this ocean to ourselves, except for flying fish." We

Pacific Western Oil Takes Over His Petroleum Securities Property.

Los Angeles, Nov. 27 (U.P.).—A certified check for $25,000,000 today concluded the transaction by which the Pacific Western Oil Co. purchased the interests of E. L. Doheny and E. L. Doheny, Jr., in the Petroleum Securities Co.

A statement from the office of the elder Doheny said the deal was the "largest cash transaction ever recorded in the history of the sale of oil properties on the Pacific Coast."

The payment of the sum was made in New York to bankers of the Petroleum Securities Co. and delivery of the final deed and contracts covering the transfer of property was made here.

The statement issued here said that in addition to the $25,000,000 paid today, a cash payment of $1,000,000 was made November 1, making a total of $26,000,000 cash paid for the properties.

The statement further said that neither of the Dohenys had any intention of retiring from the oil business, but, on the contrary, are preparing a very active campaign on recently acquired properties which were not included in the deal today.

over the Antarctic. This plan has now been abandoned.

"We shall be on the ice for a year and six months," said Commander Byrd in an interview. "The expedition is not going to make a dash or attempt any stunt exploit. It is out for scientific exploration."

In a radiogram of November 24, Kessler states:

"Won't easily, wonderful reception. Interesting country and dandy people. Dash for Antarctic and real work to begin soon. Everybody well. Best regards to the gang."

Plan to Leave Friday.

Wellington, New Zealand, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Commander Richard E. Byrd and 50 members of his Antarctic expedition are planning to leave Dunedin on Friday directly for the Bay of Whales, if ice reports from whalers now in Ross Sea are favorable. They will sail in the City of New York.

The Eleanor Bolling, the commander's other vessel, will make two trips to the south, carrying supplies, and will remain at Dunedin for the winter. Early next summer she will leave with fresh provisions for the ice party.

When the expedition was first planned Commander Byrd intended, if conditions on the ice plateau were favorable, to do all his scheduled flying in a few months, returning to civilization before the "long darkness" settled

M'MANUS HELD WITHOUT BAIL, CHARGED IN ROTHSTEIN MURDER

—were incarcerated in separate prison Monday when Judge Mancuso ordered them held as material witnesses and fixed the abnormal bail. Banton had defined them as hostile witnesses and expressed a fear that they might flee the State.

Discharge of Witnesses Demanded.

Today, hearing writs of habeas corpus, Leboe went before Supreme Court Justice Tierney and demanded that they be discharged. There is no proof, he pointed out, that the men were in room 349, no proof that they intended to flee Banton's jurisdiction. Justice Tierney, however, dismissed the writs on the ground that Banton apparently is pushing the case toward a solution and that, inasmuch as the grand jury is now in session on the case, the district attorney should be entitled to the protection of evidence.

The attorney is now planning to carry the case into the Federal courts on the ground that the huge bail has deprived the men of their constitutional rights. Resort to the Court of Appeals, he said, would consume at least two weeks.

These were the men who sat down with Rothstein in the now famous poker game in Jimmy Meehan's apartment September 8, where Rothstein lost $300,000 betting on high cards, which losses he never paid. Out of his failure to pay, it is asserted by police and denied by Leboe, sprang the motive that brought about his death.

Meanwhile, the question of whether McManus "surrendered" or was "arrested" has tended to create a minor rift between the police department and the district attorney's office, each of which is prone to accept the credit for the accomplishment.

At his afternoon conference, Police Commissioner Warren seemed to regard the matter as a much-needed feather in the cap of the detective division and an individual feat by Detective Cordes, who already holds two honor medals for meritorious work.

"Detective Cordes did excellent work," Warren said, "and will be given another medal and promotion."

Whether "surrender" or "arrest," it was learned today that the decision by McManus to talk with Banton was decided no later than Monday, when he broke his silence long enough to look for an attorney. Moreover, during the more than three weeks he was in hiding he was in touch, through intermediaries, with the authorities, it was learned.

The Outstanding Chevrolet

of Chevrolet History

- a Six in the price range of the four!

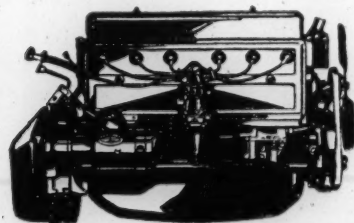

Although the whole country was looking forward to its presentation with eager expectation—

—although it had been freely predicted that the new Chevrolet would represent the most spectacular of all Chevrolet achievements—

—the announcement of The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History—a Six in the price range of the four—has proved to be the greatest sensation of America's greatest industry!

Everyone was familiar with Chevrolet's brilliant record of success. Everyone knew that Chevrolet had become the world's largest builder of automobiles by establishing, year after year, new standards of performance, beauty and quality in the low-priced field. But no one ever dreamed that it would be possible to provide, in the price range of the four, a six of such startling performance, such impressive appearance and such luxurious comfort.

When you learn the full details of this sensational new automobile, you will realize that Chevrolet has provided those qualities of six-cylinder smoothness, reserve power and flashing acceleration which heretofore could only be enjoyed in cars of much higher price.

Chevrolet's new six-cylinder fully enclosed valve-in-head engine has a high compression non-detonating head. Its piston displacement is 194 cu. in. and it develops 46 H. P. at low engine speed.

The Outstanding Chevrolet is powered by a new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine of advanced design. Over one hundred different engines were created, built, tested and improved during the past four years before the present design was adopted. Millions of miles of testing at the General Motors Proving Ground and in various parts of the country have definitely established its stamina, dependability and economy under every possible condition of usage.

It develops 32% more power than the previous Chevrolet motor and affords sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration. And despite this vastly improved performance, an economy averaging better than twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline!

Marvelous new bodies by Fisher are an outstanding feature of the Outstanding Chevrolet.

Numerous engineering advancements make possible these amazing performance results. A new non-detonating cylinder head provides high compression performance without special fuels. The new hot-spot manifold assures complete fuel vaporization. The new and larger carburetor incorporates an automatic acceleration pump, and an improved venturi choke for quicker winter starting; while a new AC gasoline pump, with filter, assures adequate fuel supply no matter how steep the hill.

A new heavier crankshaft statically and dynamically balanced makes torsional vibration imperceptible at all speeds—due partly to its exceptional size and partly to the relative shortness of its crank-throws. The entire rocker arm mechanism is automatically lubricated; and this, combined with the new camshaft, new large valve tappets, new fabric camshaft gear and the new muffling system results in delightful silence of operation. Long engine life is provided for by a new type AC air cleaner and by a new method of continuous self-purification of the crankcase oil—while an improved system of crankcase ventilation minimizes oil dilution, particularly during winter use.

Impressive as it is, however, this superb power plant is only one phase of the advanced engineering revealed in the Outstanding Chevrolet. Big, powerful, easily adjustable four-wheel brakes give positive, safe control—with silent operation assured under all conditions by semi-molded linings and a new brake band design. The steering mechanism is fully equipped with ball bearings and the new steering wheel is of the flat slender rimmed type—an important contribution to ease of control.

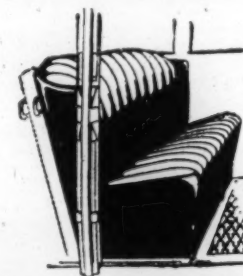

The new and quieter transmission contains heavier gears of vanadium steel while the driving gear and pinion are made of 3½% nickel steel—the finest gear material known to metallurgical science. And, also, there are provided such costly car features as two-beam headlamps with toe button control for "dimming," new type cooling thermostat, semi-automatic spark control, theft-proof Electrolock, waterproof spark-coil construction, larger shielded safety gasoline tank in rear, improved differential lubrication and many other features of comparable importance.

If the Outstanding Chevrolet offered only this impressive array of mechanical advancements, it would still be hailed as a sensational achievement in modern automotive design. But, in addition, it offers an order of beauty, distinction and style never before attained in any low-priced automobile!

bile! The long high hood and the gleaming chromium plated radiator shell furnish the key note of rugged smartness and grace. The rakish unbroken lines, emphasized by distinctively grouped hood louvres, are suggestive of speed and alertness. The divided body moulding and concave front pillars reflect the vogue so widely favored by leading custom builders; while the larger, longer, lower bodies are themselves masterful examples of the craftsmanship for which Fisher is internationally renowned.

The seats are wider and more restful. The driver's seat in all closed models is easily adjustable, forward or back—a feature recently introduced on a few of the high-priced cars. The redesigned dash carries an attractive grouping of all control instruments indirectly lighted including the new motor temperature indicator.

The driver's seat in all closed models is easily adjustable forward or back by means of a handle regulator. This brings the clutch and brake pedals within proper reach for all drivers.

Climaxing sixteen years of continuous progress... revealing new performance, new beauty, new quality and dependability... priced so amazingly low as to be within the reach of everybody, everywhere—

—this sensational new Chevrolet represents the greatest dollar-for-dollar value ever offered in any automobile!

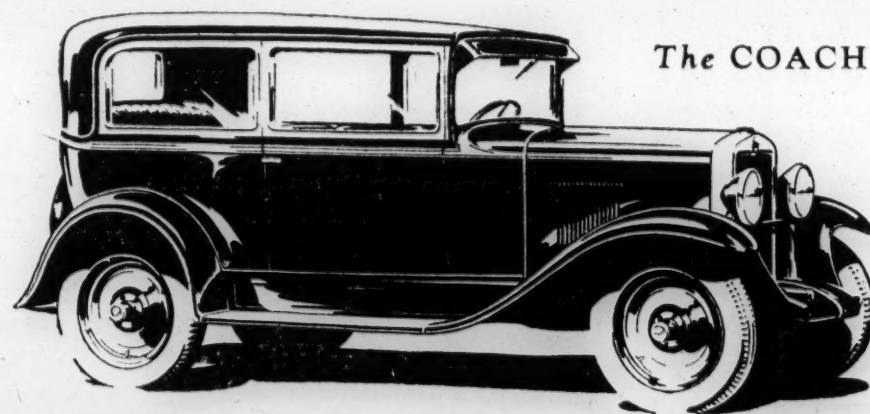

We cordially invite you to visit our showroom and secure complete and detailed information regarding this great new car which will be ready for delivery beginning January 1st.

The new slender rimmed flat steering wheel and improved dash assure the utmost driving convenience. On the indirectly lighted instrument panel are grouped all controls, including the motor heat indicator and theft-proof Electrolock.

SOUL OF HONOR WINS ENDURANCE STAKE IN UPSET

Naming Ends Problem of Experts

Few of All-American Selectors to Agree on Flank Choices.

Ends Somewhat Below Standard of Other Years, Is Belief.

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).
NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—No feature of this year's All-American football cross-examination is any more difficult than that of getting any general agreement on the ends.
It is a conspicuous development of the campaign that the ends have been somewhat below the standard of other years. There are unquestionably a flock of good flankmen in all parts of the country, but whether it just happens to be an off year in some respects or due to changes in the style of play, it is obvious that no wingman stand out in the fashion that Winslett, of Alabama; Osterhaus, of Michigan; Hanson, of Syracuse, and others have done in recent years.
If you listen to the Pacific Coast critics there isn't a better end in the country than Ike Rankin, of St. Mary's, the same school that produced an All-American center and major league ball player last year in Larry Stencourt.

Franklin is big, fast and durable, combining the essential qualities of greatness to such an extent that the more enthusiastic are calling him the best end since Muller's days at California, and Muller, you may recall, is sometimes classed as an all-time All-American.

Capt. Phillips, of California, and Tappan, of Southern California, are two other far Western entries with excellent qualifications. Haycraft, of Minnesota, and Foster, of Ohio State, are two of the best in Big Ten circles, while Brown, of Missouri, is generally picked as the best flankman in the Big Six. Collins, Colrick and O'Brien have had their big moments for Notre Dame, but they haven't been consistent. Phelan, of Detroit, is a star.

Some of Carnegie's outstanding achievements have been featured

Women Golf Aces, "Guests" At Costly Resorts, Warned

Drastic Action Threatened If Rule Regarding Expenses Is Violated; Winter Resorts Using Names of "Guests" for Advertising.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.
WITH the approach of the winter season comes the customary announcement that certain women golfers—some of them champions and near champions—will be "guests" at fashionable golfing resorts in Florida and California. It has long been a question how these players, who certainly do not possess independent fortunes, could afford to spend the winter months at expensive hotels, with nothing but golf to occupy their time.
Conditions have at last become so flagrant as to necessitate a warning from the golf authorities, who have ample foundation for the belief that these women golfers are nothing more than "guests" at the resorts, and that the resorts are using their names for advertising purposes.

The women's committee of the United States Golf Association has issued a circular letter to all women players who have participated in national amateur championships.

It states that "its attention has been called to the fact that drastic action is likely to be taken by the executive committee of the United States Golf Association in the near future on account of the frequent violation by women golfers of section B of the amateur definition and the association's policy in respect to the payment of expenses."

After quoting the amateur definition, the committee asserts that in order to avoid such "drastic action" it must insist that these violations do not occur.

G. U. Asked to Beat Third Unbeaten Foe in Detroit U.

THE schedule makers for Georgetown University were thought to have done all that was asked of them when they lined up such formidable foes as New York University, Carnegie Tech and Detroit University for the Hilltop Eleven this year, but, as it has turned out, they did a little more than that. In meeting these teams, Georgetown has in each instance been called upon to tackle an undefeated club in the ascendancy.

Saturday in Detroit, Coach Lou Little's scared valiants, for the third time this year, will attempt to smother the spottless record of a rival, the Detroit Club having gone so far without taking the short end of a score and almost without being scored upon.

Georgetown, by the way, would relish the sight of Carroll at his old guard post when Saturday comes along.

For the heels of the Carnegie clash, Georgetown engaged West Virginia University, with the Mountaineers totalling an 8-straight victory last year and entering the season with a home tasting defeat for the first time since the opening of their season when Little Davis-Ekins handed them an upset.

Then came the Fordham contest which, though it promised no grueling action, as had been expected in the three previous encounters, developed into a real battle with victory costing the Hilltop Eleven the loss by injury of Ralph Duplin and Jimmy Bock.

With Doran's unbeaten crew awaiting them, the pupils of Little are found in much the same trying situation as they have been upon two previous occasions this season. They must become a team, and they must become a team in a hurry, and this Coach Little is hoping will be done. He drove them hard in yesterday's practice session which closed only when darkness interfered, and he will send them through another long drill today starting at 2 p. m.

The business of stopping the terrific charging of Cowboy Connell and Lloyd Brazil, of the Titan eleven, will be a present problem. Connell is a difficult problem, the solution of which became more easily imaginable yesterday, however, when Little and Doran, back in first-string tackle and guard, respectively, returned to action.

The Georgetown line will oppose a set of forwards coached by Bud Boring, All-American center at Notre Dame two years ago. The Titan forwards, notably have been partly responsible for the success of their back field mates, and in view of the fact that the Detroit backs are outstanding and that no back can go far on the offense unless they show him the way up front, may be taken for granted that the Blue and Gray linemen will have to step right lively.

Connell and Brazil, the Detroit stars, have able assistance in the back field from Maloney, full back, and Vachon, quarter back. Maloney is the battering ram of the Titan attack, while Vachon, the 140-pound field general, the team's most steady tackler and best interferer.

Little Names Mooney On All-American Team

Lou Little, Georgetown football coach, names two Carnegie Tech and two New York University players on his All-American Eleven selected yesterday for the Associated Press. No other team has more than one. Eight Eastern players, two from Middle Western teams and one from the South comprise Little's selection, which follows:

Ends—Barnabe, New York University; and Rosenzweig, Carnegie Tech;—Nowack, Illinois, and Mooney, Georgetown.

Guards—Pomeroy, Michigan, and Getto, Pittsburgh.

Center—Westgate, Pennsylvania. Quarter back—Harper, Carnegie.

Half backs—Strong, N. Y. U., and Mizell, Georgia Tech.

Full back—Cagle, Army.

IT wouldn't seem advisable for one to lay aboard a heavy turkey dinner before going to watch Catholic U. and George Washington collide in Brookland Stadium tomorrow afternoon if one cares to avoid the doctor and indignation remedies later. Turkey and cranberries are said not to mix well with the excitement of this annual football fiasco, as thousands who have experienced the mixture in past years can testify.

Rival coaches, players and student bodies have been setting the stage for the clash for days. The cash customer just about all the thrills he will want in one afternoon; in fact, two or three, or maybe a sufficiency until next November rolls around.

So serious are they that in preparing for the clash during the past several days no stranger has been allowed to see foot the respective practice fields, the fear being entertained that information of precious trick plays and signals might get back to the rival camp.

The Post reporter managed to pass the scrutiny of Coach Jack McCallister at the Brookland gridiron yesterday but he wasn't able to appear in person in the eyes of the Cardinal squad who would have sworn to a man had you asked them that he at least was a George Washington espionage.

It is rumored about that one of the carpenters erecting the temporary box seats used a characteristic Hatcher stroke in his work and was immediately warned.

Dean Crum threw the cloak of secrecy around his boys completely. He accomplished the act so well that when Dean Van Vleet of the law school, strolled out after classes to look the squad over in practice, he couldn't find them. The G-street students themselves were barred and if they wanted to add any more moral support to the Catholic Eleven they must wait until tonight in the gymnasium when the Violets, Little's players, and another unbroken string of victories, this time falling to succeed by a two-touchdown margin, are occurring the permanent loss of Capt. Jerry Carroll, the Blue and Gray's main dependable on the scrimmage line.

Catholic U. undoubtedly would like to see the game become a combat in the air, since it boasts, in the person of Gene Mergel, an accurate and reliable football tosser as fans have seen in this section of the country.

Murphy heaves them far and near with true aim. If the play calls for a distant punt, he will steamroll, resembling one of the strikes T. Speaker used to rifle from center field. His short passes over the line go as if they were thrown by a professional receiver, while the Cardinal players receiving them must carry no rubber in their hands if they hope to snatch them.

Murphy does not, however, constitute the sole extent of Catholic's aerial threat. Capt. Jimmy Schmidt can pass very well, and he will be a large part of the game. He is a big, powerful player, and he is a good passer.

The physical condition of both clubs is encouraging to their coaches and promises plenty of the best of the last year's hard-fought contest. Coach Crum was well pleased, he said last night, with the condition of his charges, while the Cardinal players looked 100 per cent fit with the exception of Malovich.

Hope is held out by the rival mentors that their first-string players will escape any injury serious enough to cause their removal from action, because the caliber of reserve strength in each camp is none too good. McCallister and Crum would like to see their warriors do their stuff in iron-man style.

This game is the last in college competition for Catholic's stocky captain, Jimmy Schmidt. He has seen his alma mater triumph over George Washington in every meeting of the schools since he entered at Brookland and he wants personally to account for victory this time if it is within his power. Schmidt entered Catholic incidentally, the first year that McCallister took over the football coaching job, and both of them are anxious to score a fourth consecutive win over the downtown eleven.

Arrangements for seating the large crowd that is looked for will be completed this afternoon. The eastern side of the bowl will be set aside for George Washington faculty members, students and alumni, while the home side will be open to the west.

Seven Notre Dame Teams Will Play Tomorrow

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 27 (U.P.).—Two hundred and fifty Notre Dame football players will be in action Thanksgiving Day either playing on gridirons or en route to games. Scheduled today disclosed seven teams leave here Wednesday night to play games in Fort Wayne, Ind.; Chicago, La Porte, Ind.; Norwalk, Ohio; Kendallville, Ind.; Elwood, Ind.; and Fostoria, Ohio. The Varsity Team will be at Tucson, Ariz., lumbering up for the Southern California game, December 1.

LONG SHOT WINNING STAKE IN BLANKET FINISH

SCHOLASTICS IN HOLIDAY GAMES

Gonzaga, Devitt, G. U. Prep, Eastern and Western Play.

FIVE games will keep local scholastic eleven busy tomorrow, all of which will be played out of town. In the high school group, Coach Kelley will lead his Eastern Prep Eleven to a battle with the strong York High School Eleven, while Western will play at Manassas, Va., with the Swagart Prep Eleven. In the prep school group Georgetown Prep encounters Newman High at Lakewood, N. J. Gonzaga plays Staunton Military Academy at Staunton, Va., and Devitt will be entertained at Woodstock, Va., by the Massanutten Military Academy Eleven.

Against York High, Eastern will be encountering a team which has beaten two local high school aggregations this season, Business and Central, in addition to compiling an impressive record against other opponents.

Eastern will go into the fray strengthened, however, in that Jimmie Munro, star center last year, will be allowed to play through diligence of the school boards both here and in York, Pa.

Munro has been kept from playing this season because of his passing the age limit for high school athletic competition. Munro could have played for York in its opening game of the high school series against Central had not an injury to his elbow prevented. He was of age before that game.

The Western Eleven will line up against Swagart Prep with hopes of ending its season with a victory. Although finishing near to last in the high school series, Coach Ahearn's team flashed exceptional form, at times, which made it dangerous throughout.

Western will be handicapped in that Eddie Brownfield will be unable to play because of a broken collarbone received against Central two weeks ago. Dick Eby will take his place at the left half back position.

Georgetown Prep's game with Newman High will be that team's annual Thanksgiving Day clash with Newman. The game will be played at the stadium, and it is expected that the game will be a close one. Georgetown Prep and Devitt's encounter with Staunton Military Academy is also expected to be a close one. Georgetown Prep and Devitt, all have pointed for these clashes.

Death of 'Al' Wagner Recalls Unusual Careers of Brothers

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—The death here of Al Wagner, brother of the illustrious John "Hans" Wagner, of baseball fame, and himself a major and minor league star of a day gone by, recalled many interesting and unusual incidents in connection with the careers of the brothers.

Al, who died Monday of an acute internal ailment at the age of 58, was the forerunner of the famous "rying Dutchman," who is a few years younger. They started to play ball on the sandlots of Mansfield (now Carnegie), Pittsburgh suburb, and soon their ability became known outside the home diamonds.

In 1893, the Steubenville, Ohio, club of the Interstate League, summoned Al for a conference and offered him a contract. The only condition under which he would sign was that his brother also be given a job, because, he said, "John is pretty good."

Twink, Choice, Unplaced in Handicap

25-to-1 Shot, Masterly Ridden by Fields, Beats Sunvir.

Neddie Runs Third in Close Finish; Pace Too Hot for Twink.

Special To The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 27. Soul of Honor, owned by the Audley Farm Stable, ran his most brilliant race, under George Fields, this afternoon to be returned the winner of the mile and 70 yards of the Endurance Handicap, which added just $9,725 to his score. Mrs. Katherine E. Hitt's Sunvir raced to the place, with the McLean Stable's Neddie finishing third, while Mrs. L. J. Kaufman's Twink, winner of both the Spalding, Lowe Jenkins and the Walden handicaps, was soundly beaten. The defeat of the imported colt in the East's final big 2-year-old stake was as much a surprise as was the triumph of Soul of Honor, at better than 25-to-1 odds, which was badly beaten in his last previous start.

It was an excellent day of sport that was furnished by the Southern Maryland Association, with the Endurance Handicap as the big event of the afternoon. The attendance was surprisingly large and the weather and track conditions were ideal.

The Endurance, which was started from the barrier and on the main course instead of from the stalls, saw the field of nine advance at a walk-up start and in good alignment.

McAttee at once went out to set the pace with Twink, but Fields broke no delay, and was right after him with Soul of Honor, and the pair of them readily drew out from the rest. Both were under a steady restraint and galloping strongly. Seabright was in third place, and Upset led fourth, but well back.

Roy, the invader from Kentucky, was sluggish in the early racing and brought up the rear, while Neddie was also a trailer. Sunvir was right after Upset and he was going so well that it was apparent early that he was destined to cut some figure.

Fields wisely stuck with Soul of Honor until the turn out of the back stretch when he moved up with the son of St. Henry, until he was alongside the imported colt. McAttee dropped to Twink in an effort to hold the command and when Soul of Honor showed his head in front he went to the whip.

But Soul of Honor, conserved by Fields' well-judged effort, was just beginning to run in earnest and Twink soon dropped. McAttee continued to drop back until he was entirely out of the contention and being eased up in the stretch.

A furling out it was apparent that nothing would catch Soul of Honor and Fields was simply holding him together to have him the winner by a length and a half. Sunvir had been steadily improving his position and when E. Walters saved him with a timely call, he was able to finish with rare courage to take the place, but he was only half a length before Neddie.

Ambrose had gone wide with Neddie on the stretch turn and he also seemed to have delayed his back check. The colt was coming along with a mighty rush and running faster than anything else in the race.

The race run by Soul of Honor was such a marked improvement over his last previous effort when he was soundly beaten at seven furlongs by such horses as Essare and Substitution. Virginia capped a history making football season in 1893 by defeating North Carolina, 16 to 0, at Richmond. With the King David team, with the aid of Phillips, also bawled the highest Masonic League set of the year of 1,738.

and feel confident of pulling through with wins. Gonzaga fans will especially follow the work of McVean, quarter back, who has featured that team's play all season.

Devitt followers will watch eagerly the performance of their back field star, Abramson, who has electrified opponents of the past with his long distance runs. The well-drilled teamwork of the Georgetown Prep Eleven will be noted with interest by Georgetown Prep supporters.

Courage in Drive;

Final drive and at the finish led Oran by a head. Two lengths back finished Strong Tackle, who in turn beat Little Captain a length for the place.

Spectacular proved best of the six starters that went to the post in the second race. He was well ridden by Leonard. Outrun in the early stages, Spectacular moved up steadily coming to the half-mile pole. At this stage, Spectacular moved up with a rush and, passing Sun Persian and Bramabiau, raced to the front and remained there until the trip was in hand.

At the finish Spectacular had a lead of a length and a half over Low Gear, who was up in the closing stride to beat Bramabiau, a nose for the place. Little Captain was tight fit between this pair. Dear Nez was fourth, beaten off another length and a half.

Gun Royal lost another race by a small margin when The Heaten beat him out in the third race this afternoon. There were nine starters in the race and Gun Royal was always favored and heavily supported. Craigville had the mount. Gun Royal's slow beginning, broke better than usual and raced in second position the entire trip. In the early part of the race, going Donnacona colt. The Heaten set a dazzling pace and drew away into a long lead the first quarter. At the half-mile pole, he was in 0-4-3-3. The Heaten still was two lengths in front and although tiring at the end he lasted long, enough to stall off Gun Royal's rush to win by a head. Poly was third, beaten a length and a half for the place and four lengths farther back finished Bramabiau. The winner ran the six furlongs in 1:13-5, a fast time when one considers that the weather was raw and cold.

Display, after several disappointing races in Maryland this fall, finally made good when he galloped home an easy winner in the Autumn Consolation Handicap. This was run as the fifth race.

It was a dash of a mile and a furlong and Display went to the post a well-backed favorite. Maibee, who has ridden the horse in most of his races, had the mount and he adopted his usual tactics of permitting Display to get settled in his stride in the early stages before making his move.

The result was that Display was trailing in the early running but in the run down the back stretch Display began picking up his horses, and moving up at the top of the home stretch he gradually won Gaffman down and at the finish won going away, under restraint by a length and a half. Canaan, ridden with very poor judgment by Robertson, was third, beaten four lengths for the place. Display ran the mile and a furlong in 1:33-2-5 within a fifth second of the track record.

Torchilla Not Extended
To Win Downs Feature

Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., Nov. 27 (A.P.)—The feature of the day was the 7-furlong race for all ages, was the feature of today's card here. Five answered the call, with no 2-year-olds according to the program. Torchilla was the winner, second money and J. N. Canaan's Martinique was third. The time for the 7 furlongs was 1:26 flat.

The Van Dusen colt soon after the race replaced Canaan as the leader and he remained in the lead thereafter, though his long lead was reduced to length and a half at the end. Gen. Grant ran in second position, which he managed to hold without difficulty.
